SHOOTS MAN DEAD

DEFENDING WOMAN

CLINTON, Oct. 21.—Aide George Azeen, a Syrian itinerant pedler, was shot and killed to-day by Arthur King of this place. King says that he acted in defence of Mrs. George N. Clement, whom the man attacked. Both King and Mrs. Clement are in the police station awaiting a full investigation of the case.

The killing was done at 11:30 this morning at Mrs. Clement's home at Sheehan's Crossing two and one-half miles from this town. The house is in a lonely isolated spot.

Mrs. Clement told the story of the shooting to Chief of Police Thomas Murphy and to Medical Examiner George L. Toby. She said:

"My husband was in Clinton driving his team to-day. I was alone in the house. This man, Azeen, came to the house and knocked at the back door. He came into the kitchen and I bought 75 cents worth of articles from him. He wanted me to buy more and when I refused he insulted me.

"I then ordered him out of the house. Instead Azeen started up and ran after me. I fled to my bedroom and just as he seized me I pulled open the dresser drawer and got my husband's 32-calibre revolver.

Screamed for Help.

"I drove the man back to the kitchen screaming for help all the time at the top of my voice. Arthur King and Thomas Ryan happened to be passing the house at the time and they both rushed into the kitchen.

"I told them what happened and just as I did so Azeen fled across the hall to his room on the other side of the house. I had given King the revolver and he fired two or three shots and Azeen dropped dead. He fell in the passage at the west side of the house.

"King only interfered to save me. He and Ryan did not come when they did I don't know what might have happened.

As each is the killing was reported in Clinton by Mrs. Clement, who ran a mile to a telephone. Chief of Police Murphy and Patrolmen Peter J. Flaherty drove to the house in the patrol wagon. King was arrested and taken to the police station. Ryan, who Mrs. Clement says was with King, could not be found. He is being looked for as a witness.

Medical Examiner Toby saw Ryan in the yard as he drove in, but the man had gone after he had viewed the body of the dead peddler.

King is twenty-four years of age and lives in Rigby street, Clinton.

CONFESSES TO BIG FUR THEFTS

As the result of a confession by Patrick C. Norris of Roxbury, the police of Brookline have found that number of wealthy residents of Brookline have been robbed and thousands of dollars' worth of furs and Winter clothing stolen. Twelve dress suit cases of jewelry were found to-day in Boston pawnshops.

MAZDAZNANS SCORED AS CULT OF GRAFTERS

ATTORNEY KITTREDGE DENOUNCES SUN WORSHIPPERS AT SHAW TRIAL.

Before a crowd which more than filled the courtroom at East Cambridge, Attorney F. W. Kittredge to-day presented to Judge McIntyre his final argument in support of the petition of Mrs. Mabelle Dutton of Lowell for the appointment of a conservator for the estate of her aunt, Mrs. Ellen M. Shaw, the wealthy disciple of Mazdaznanism.

This is the sixth and closing day of the famous Sun Worshipper's case.

Mr. Kittredge flayed the heads of Mazdaznan as the organizers of "a grafting cult under the guise of a religion."

He declared that Mrs. Shaw, who it is charged by the petitioners, intended to convert her money into use of Dr. Hanish, the founder of the organization, was "mentally weak and unable to care for her property." He added that she was entirely under the domination of "these grafters."

"Mazdaznanism in Lowell," continued the counsel for Mrs. Dutton, "is dedicated to Dr. Hilton's Specific No. 3, and his sign, advertising this nostrum, is on the windows of the Sun Worshippers' temple itself."

A large number of women had jammed into the courtroom to hear the closing arguments in the notable hearing. Mrs. Shaw, against whom the proceedings were instituted, Mrs. Perlie Georges, her niece by marriage, and one of the foremost witnesses in her behalf, were present. The former showed great attention under the fire of the counsel for the petitioner.

Smiles at Denunciation.

Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Ruth Hilton, the High Priestess of the Sun Worshippers, was also in court, and sat smiling and unflinching as Mr. Kittredge launched his shafts of eloquence in her direction. With her was her twelve-year-old daughter Constance, who was affectionately called "the Sun Goddess" by Hanish. This was the little girl's first appearance at the hearing.

In his argument to the court, Mr. Kittredge said:

"Our claim is that Mrs. Shaw is mentally weak and unable to care for her property, and that she is entirely subjected to the methods of a grafting cult, under the guise of a religion. They are the Mazdaznans, or Sun Worshippers.

"The attorney for the respondents yesterday in court denied that the Mazdaznans were sun worshippers. Look at their own book, the 'Young Circle,' and see on the front page the fact printed that the book is published by the Sun Worshipping Publishing Company.

"They are in business and religion, but in religion for business. They erect temples of worship not as the ancient temples were erected, dedicated to God and good.

Medicine Ad. in Temple.

"What appeals particularly to the people of Lowell is Dr. Hilton's Specific No. 3. His sign is on one of the windows of the temple.

"Mazdaznanism in Lowell is dedicated to Dr. Hilton's Specific No. 3, and the goddess is Mrs. Hilton, who has been called the 'Modern Virgin Mary.' I say this temple is dedicated to Dr. Hilton's Specific and to Mrs. Hilton as 'mother,' who is ruled by Dr. Hanish, who says he is the Christ of to-day, and even better than our Christ."

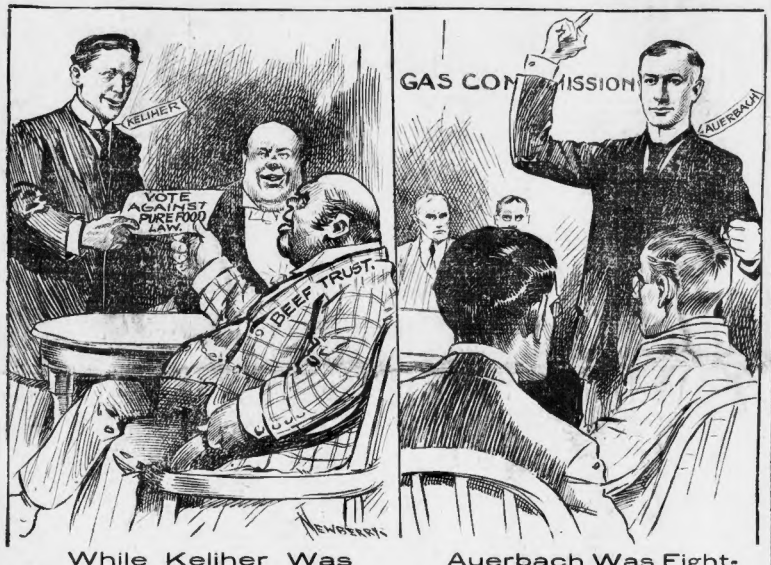
Judge McIntire took the case under advisement. In the midst of Attorney Kittredge's argument Mrs. Ellen M. Shaw broke down and wept bitterly. Attorney Kittredge told the court that at the time of her husband's death Mrs. Shaw's fortune amounted to $160,000. In five years, he said, it had dwindled to half that amount and in the last two years alone Mrs. Shaw had lost $140,000.

AUERBACH TO-MORROW IN WARD 8

J. F. Auerbach's opening rally in the campaign against John A. Keliher for Congress, will be held in the waiting room in Illesson street, Ward 8, to-morrow night.

At this meeting Mr. Auerbach will make public some facts about Keliher.

THE DIFFERENCE.



While Keliher Was Voting Against the Pure Food Bill—

Auerbach Was Fighting for 80-Cent Gas AND WON.

Keliher's Record as Bad as Can Be Says Auerbach

Junius T. Auerbach, candidate for Congress in the Ninth District against Congressman John A. Keliher, has made a statement to the voters in the district in which he says:

I shall contest with Mr. Keliher the seat in Congress for the Ninth Congressional District. The determination to oppose Mr. Keliher was reached after I had heard the request of citizens of all political parties in all the wards of the district to give the district a chance to choose another and a better representative than Mr. Keliher.

An examination of Mr. Keliher's record, which, in common with most of the citizens of the district, I knew nothing about, even after the caucus contest, shows that it is as bad as it can possibly be. Mr. Keliher was nominated by one of the great parties without a sufficient knowledge of the history of his term of service in Congress.

Until men began to urge me to stand against Mr. Keliher I did not myself know the character of his record, and had even written him a letter of congratulation, for I have known him personally several years. I shall raise no party issues in this contest. I believe Mr. Keliher's record is unworthy of the ideals of any party, and I shall give the citizens of the district a chance to say whether they wish such a representation or do not.

I have never held public office, but I have been called upon to perform some public services during the last few years, and these I shall present as a contrast to the public services of Mr. Keliher.

JUNIUS T. AUERBACH.

People who desire tickets for the big Hisgen rally in Tremont Temple next Monday night should apply immediately, before the supply is exhausted, at the headquarters of the Independence League, No. 348 Old South Building, Boston.

TAFT CHANGES MIND ABOUT CHICAGO TRIP

PARKSBURG, W. Va., Oct. 21.—Mr. Taft has changed his mind about spending the next Sunday in Chicago after he delivers his Indiana campaign. He will probably leave for New York city on Saturday night after his speech at Gary, Ind. He will arrive in New York on Sunday night, and will rest until he begins his New York State campaign in Brooklyn on next Monday night.

BLAME FIREBUGS FOR THE CHELSEA BLAZE

That the fire early to-day in the stable of Aleck Feinberg, in Auburn street, Chelsea, was the work of a firebug or a gang of firebugs is the statement made by Deputy Chief Neal of the State police, after an investigation.

The police of Chelsea, as well as Deputy Neal's department, are conducting a right investigation into the fire which destroyed the stable and burned three horses to death, two others being rescued with difficulty, some dripping from their backs. It is believed they have an important clew to the identity of the Chelsea firebugs.

"This latest fire in Chelsea seems to me to be a brutal and logical case of incendiarism," said Deputy Chief Neal. "I have begun an investigation and will be glad to help the Chelsea police. We are going to run down the incendiaries.

"Detective Smith of our department is investigating the fire and nothing is to be left undone if we can bring the guilty to well-deserved punishment.

"It is a hard matter to secure conviction in cases just like this. We will do just as we have done before, gather the evidence and then put it up to the courts.

Big Fire by Incendiaries.

"I have always held to the opinion that the big fire in Chelsea was caused by incendiaries. The courts did not have that belief. The district attorney has aside the case in which a jury failed to agree. Four persons lost their life in the fire.

"In some cases juries are tossed up in carrying certain important cases. It is certainly aggravating not to secure a conviction in a case like this. We will do just as we have done before, gather the evidence and then put it up to the courts.

Big Fire Department.

Preparations are completed for the organization of a new fire company in Chelsea and fifteen more men are to be added to the service. The will give Chelsea thirty-six regular firemen and fifty-six call men.

The fire was discovered just before midnight through the screams of the horses in the stable. The alarm was given to Policemen James Mahoney and Henry Parsons by a man whose name is unknown. While Mahoney was sending in the alarm Parsons, with two carriers, broke down the door of the stable and managed to lead out one of the horses. The others had fallen in their stalls and were threshing about in their death agony. The horses which were saved were examined by a number of spectators who, according to the police now investigating the fire, found oil dripping from the backs of the animals. Some of the men who rubbed their hands over the backs of the horses said they found their hands covered with kerosene oil.

The chief blames the insurance companies for the conditions which have existed in Chelsea. He said to-day: "The fire insurance companies can say what they wish. If they had been there and seen about placing their insurance before the big fire there would have been less fires. One department cannot be held to blame.

"The insurance companies which have declined to take no more risks in Chelsea are the Buffalo German Fire Insurance Company of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Buffalo Commercial Fire Insurance Company of Buffalo, N. Y.; the Milwaukee Mechanics Fire Insurance Company of Milwaukee, Wis.; the Dubuque Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Dubuque, Ia., and the Farmers Fire Insurance Company of York, Pa.

"The fire of early to-day proved the wisdom of the Board of Control in ordering that a brick wall should be constructed between the stable and the big shop of Fordham & Alderman Cohen. Chief Spencer says that had there been no wall there the spread of the fire and the destruction of most valuable property would have followed.

I'LL PICK MY OWN HUSBAND NEXT TIME

—Jennie K. Molway

Girl Wedded Through Marriage Brokers Now Seeking Freedom.

DENOUNCES OLD CUSTOM

Some interesting testimony about the methods of the marriage brokers or "schatchens" who work among the Hebrews in Boston was given in the Superior Court before Judge Dana when Mrs. Jennie Kaplan Molway, a dashing, dark-eyed Jewish young woman told of her experiences. She was asking the court to nullify her marriage to Abraham Molway.

With her in court was her aged, patriarchal father, who, following the custom of certain of his co-religionists, believes the marriage broker is a very useful member of the community and by patronizing one brought all kinds of trouble on his daughter.

"I never saw Abe but twice before I was married to him," Mrs. Molway told the Judge. "My father here came to me one day and said, 'Jennie, why don't you get married?' I laughed and told him I would when I found the right man. 'I'll find you a man. You must marry before you get too old and have a true big family,' he said. 'I'll be sent away to the schatchen.

"In a few days he said to me, 'Jennie, I have a man, such a nice young man, for you.' I was cautious to say him, and the schatchen introduced me to Abe Molway. Once later I saw him, and then we were married.

"The very day I was married he made me give him my money, $75, and my father gave him $25 and he started a shoe store in Chelsea. A week later he skipped out. That's what you get for letting a schatchen pick out your man.

"I say every girl must pick out her own man. She has to live with him, not the schatchen or his father. That may be bad enough in the old country, but it won't go over here. I wish I'd never seen Abe. If I get loose from him you bet I'll pick out my own husband next time."

Judge Dana thought the case would stand a little further investigation and reserved his decision until that may be made.

IRISH PARTY SENDS THANKS

The following cablegram was received to-day by the national secretary of the United Irish League of America, John O'Callaghan, from the United Irish League in Dublin:

"At a largely attended meeting of the Irish Parliamentary Party held in the Dublin Mansion House to-day, John Redmond presiding, the following resolution was proposed by John Dillon, seconded by Jeremiah Jordan, and passed unanimously:

"That we desire to tender our warmest and most grateful thanks to our countrymen in America, and to American friends not of Irish blood, for the splendid reception given to our chairman and colleagues and for promise of continued support to the Irish Parliamentary Party and the cause for which it stands."

TRACK BED SINKS; TRAGEDY AVERTED

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—A landslide on the New York Central railroad's main line two miles north of Yonkers early to-day swept away nearly 100 feet of track, dropped an immense crane that had been used for raising dirt from a cut into a hole many feet deep and buried it.

AIR DOMESTIC TROUBLES TO WIN DAUGHTER

Albert L. Jewell, Through Lawyer, Accuses Wife of Intoxication.

BOTH SEEK A DIVORCE

A story of domestic troubles concerning a prominent society couple was revealed in Judge Dana to-day when he heard the arguments on the motion of Mr. Abby S. Jewell for counsel fees and temporary alimony while the suit for divorce brought against her by her husband Albert L. Jewell, 3d, and cross-libel case came on pending. Both husband and wife accuse each other of desertion on July 1, 1904.

Mr. Jewell has been prominent in realty transactions in this city. He went into bankruptcy in 1905 and his liabilities were about $250,000.

Attorney C. F. Eldredge, who appeared for the husband, accused Mrs. Jewell of intoxication and said that her daughter Gladys had to leave her on this account.

Miss Gladys Jewell is sixteen years old, and, from statements made by counsel, appears to be the cause of contention between her parents. Mrs. Jewell asked the court to award her $500 on that she could pay her daughter's tuition bill at St. Mary's Episcopal School in New Jersey.

Mr. Jewell's divorce libel was filed on March 8 last. In June his wife brought her counter suit. Both libels were placed on trial.

Judge Dana allowed the customary $50 for counsel fees, but said he would not decide the alimony motion until he had heard the case.

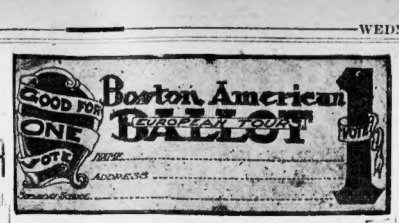
Attorney Eldredge vigorously opposed the allowance, saying Mrs. Jewell may have as being unjust to his client, and in his argument claimed the husband's side of the domestic war. He said:

"When Mr. Jewell died his libel we asked for the custody of Gladys and no effort was made by Mrs. Jewell to contest the suit until June.

"While Gladys was attending the Quincy Mansion school in Wollaston her mother moved to Atlantic to make a home for her daughter there, and became obnoxious to neighbors by frequently getting intoxicated. Gladys was obliged to leave her mother's home, saying she was afraid of her mother.

"Mr. Jewell placed his daughter in the house of his sister, Mrs. Charles E. Fuller, in Somerville. Gladys was happy and contented there, attending the Girls' High School, until her mother sent some young people to Somerville in the absence of the Fullers and they sought to influence the girl to leave. Mrs. Fuller then decided that Gladys should go to all the dances she could in order to find out if she would be taken on long automobile rides. As the girl was of a flirtatious nature, invitations to Attleboro. She was taken to dances, given automobile rides to New York.

"Her father did not know where Gladys was until two weeks ago. Her mother has no love for her daughter but thinks it would be better off with the Fullers. She will return there if in this New Jersey school bill is not paid."



Votes by Thousands for Teachers in Tour Contest

Have you voted this week in the BOSTON AMERAN Free Coupon Tour Contest?

If not, DO SO TO-DAY.

Ballots are coming by thousands, new teachers are entering every day and the contest is going with a rush. The voting thus has exceeded all expectations. The contest is bound to prove one of the best ever conducted in New England.

There is still plenty of time for Sunday Schoolteachers to enter. Plenty of room remains for new entries in every district. A ballot will start any teacher in the race, and friends will most likely do the rest.

DON'T WAIT. ENTER TO-DAY.

The voting this week will be heavier than its last week, and next Sunday's list will show some more surprising changes.

IN VISION HEARS HUSBAND CRY AS HE DROWNS

Beachmont Woman Sees Fate of Victim in Upturned Power Boat.

Mrs. Lottie Johnson of Beachmont to-day tells of a remarkable dream in which she heard her husband's call for help from the waves that she says engulfed him and his companion on Monday night.

Johnson's upturned power boat was found the following morning off Rockport, Mass. His fate is yet unsolved, but the young wife declares he has been drowned.

"I knew I dreamed of George's death," she said to-day, this girl of twenty-two and bride of a year. "I almost believe that his voice came to me while he was drowning. Then they found the power boat and I knew was upturned.

"Nothing can make me think him alive. We had been at the theatre Monday night and had a jolly time. I went to bed at 11.30 and had just fallen asleep, it seems to me, when I was aroused by hearing my name called—not once, but twice, distinctly.

"'Lottie! Lottie!'

"I sat bolt upright in bed. I knew the voice as well, but I was so drowsy I couldn't think, and called to Mrs. Smith and asked her if she had said anything—if she had called me.

"She told me no, and then I fell back on my pillow to go to sleep, trying to laugh away the strange feeling of fear and dread that came over me.

Heard Call Again.

"Then came that far-off cry again, this time weaker—Lottie! Lottie!'

"I screamed, like frights, but was soon on wide awake that I thought I was dreaming. I had jumped from my bed and again asked Mrs. Smith if she had called me.

"During the rest of the night my sleep was so troubled. Everything seemed awfully strange, and I was hearing noises and starting away into the dark, looking for something.

"Yesterday morning at breakfast the news came that George's upturned boat had come ashore at Rockport. I had hoped him not to make this trip. It was the first he made this year. He laughed at my fears, and said he would soon be back, but I never expect to see him again alive. I think my dream was a revelation of his fate."

Fear Both Men Drowned.

Friends of the missing young lobsterman believe that both he and Henry Leo of Pearl street, Beachmont, were drowned during the gale along the coast Monday night. It was Leo's third trip with Johnson.

Mrs. Johnson, who is a very pretty girl, had boarded with her husband at the home of the Smiths, No. 1,005 Winthrop avenue, Beachmont, all this Summer. Johnson had made a profitable season at his lobster fishing, and promised his wife that this would be the last he would make this Fall.

TO TESTIFY IN INDIAN PROBE

SEATTLE, Oct. 21.—Miss Mabel Benedict will travel from this city to Valdez, Alaska, where she has been subpoenaed by the Federal Grand Jury to give evidence concerning the alleged atrocities committed by United States sailors upon the Aleut Indians.

Miss Benedict was a teacher in the Jessie Lee Home in Unalaska, near Valdez, and she is one of those who brought the charges against the sailors and urged an investigation on the part of the United States Government.

If Miss Benedict shows unwillingness to go to Alaska, she will be accompanied by a deputy United States marshal. When the charges were first made Miss Benedict wrote a number of articles which appeared in religious periodicals. These were denied by officers in the navy. Friends of the young woman declare that she will go to testimony in going to Alaska to testify.

ESCAPE LYNCH MOB AS DEATH VOTE IS TAKEN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 21.—Zach Taylor, the aged lawyer who was taken from a hotel at Walnut Log, Tenn., at the same time Captain Rankin was lynched, has escaped from fishermen night riders.

After Captain Rankin was hanged, early this morning the masked night riders got into a disputation among themselves as to what to do with Taylor. Taylor jumped from his guards and, dashing to the lake, plunged in, swimming across and being fired on by the riders. He managed to escape in the thick underbrush, aided by darkness. He was found near Tiptonville this morning by searchers.

Soon after the sunrise Captain Rankin's body was found riddled with bullets and hanging to the bark of the rope about the neck.

A man named Powell, who hauls fish from Walnut Log to Hickman, is said to have been fined for carrying the dead, which numbered about eighty members.

POLITICS IN BURLEY ATTACK ALMSHOUSE?

Alderman Curley has asked the trustees of the almshouse at Long Island, through a Board of Aldermen, to state whether the daily rate in the institution is 200 per cent. higher than a year ago owing to the good served inmates and other causes.

A board turned down the Curley request, but figures compiled from the records of the death rate to be lower there this year than for a number of years past. In reply to Alderman Curley a man familiar with affairs at the institution said to-day:

"What is the basis of your unfounded charges, Alderman Curley? At the hearing before the committee of aldermen at Long Island, some of the employes of the big Island institution from your district were in the number discharged as the result of the charges. Do you suppose these men made without foundation from Alderman Curley. Did you apply to Alderman Curley for their reinstatement? Witness? Is not this the motive of your present accusations and attack?"

BOY POISONER HAS WEAK MIND

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 21.—Dr. Bastian, county physician, and Dr. L. J. Carpenter of this city have made an examination into the mental condition of Charles J. Price, the eighteen-year-old lad who attempted the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah R. Baker of Mount Vernon last week by placing poison in their tea, and have declared him mentally unbalanced.

Price was employed by Mr. Barker, a prosperous farmer, as chore boy. He confessed that he tried to poison them because they "bossed him," and he thought they were "old enough to do anyway." The couple are about seventy years old.

TALKS BURIAL OF LIVE WOMAN

ELLIS, Kas., Oct. 21.—The intervention of a physician prevented the burial alive of Mrs. Thomas Chapman, wife of one of the best known citizens of this part of Kansas.

Mrs. Chapman, who is sixty years of age, is supposed to have suddenly died from heart disease Saturday last. The body was prepared for burial, but was not embalmed. The funeral was to have taken place yesterday afternoon, but a few minutes before the casket was to be sealed a physician requested permission to see the body. After confirming his suspicions the woman was removed from the coffin and placed in a bed. While her heart is weak it is believed Mrs. Chapman will recover.

WOMAN 50 IN BIG LOVE SUIT

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 21.—The story of the alleged alienation of the affections of a woman who has passed the half century mark is to be told in the Civil Courts of Norristown to-day.

The principals in the suit are residents of Gwynne, a fashionable district along the North Pennsylvania railroad. The plaintiff is Charles N. Knip, seventy-one years old, and the defendant is William R. Whitney, a wealthy widower. Mr. and Mrs. Knip have not lived together for more than a year.

Knip values the love of his wife at $10,000.

BODY BURIED UNDER LEAVES

ASHFIELD, Oct. 21.—The body of an unknown man, partially covered by leaves, was found by W. R. Wing and a man named Bailey while hunting on the Magee farm.

The body was in bad condition, and near it was an overcoat. Associate Medical Examiner S. F. Saunders was notified.

No one in this vicinity has been reported missing.

HARVARD HELD UP BY ACCIDENT

The Mongolian liner Harvard, which was due at Boston at 8 a. m. to-day, did not come at her pier until 10 o'clock owing to an accident to her steam steering gear.

The Harvard was speeding up by Cape Cod early after 4 o'clock, when her steering gear became clogged, and it was found necessary to stop the ship to make repairs. The passengers were asleep in their staterooms at the time and most of them were unaware that the ship had stopped until they arrived in Boston.

SOLD BEFORE RACE.

Shortly before the horses were called to start in the 2.14 trot at Lexington, Dick McMahon purchased from D. D. Morris for $1,500 the bay horse Soldwell. He was driven by his new owner in the race, but failed to show anything until the fifth heat, when he finished second.

BREAKS A COLD PROMPTLY

The following formula is a never-failing remedy for colds:

One ounce of Compound Syrup of Sanaparilla, one ounce Toris Compound and one half pint of good whiskey, mix and shake thoroughly each time and use in doses of a tablespoonful every four hours. Toris compound is a product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago, but it is well as the other ingredients can be had from any good druggist.

This if followed up will cure an acute cold in 24 hours.

HELEN BYRON SECRETLY WED

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—The marriage of Miss Helen Byron to Robert B. Roberts, her leading man in "My Sweetheart" Company, eight weeks ago in St. Louis, is publicly announced. It was kept secret on account of the opposition of the bride's mother to stagestruck. Up until yesterday the couple resided at the Albany Hotel, but are now residing with the parents of the wife in Decatur avenue, the Bronx.

'HELP US FIND LOST SISTER,' PLEAD GIRLS

Marcia Chirurg Tells of Anxious Search for Bertha, 16, Lured From Home.

How she and her sister Sarah are devoting every moment of the day and late the night, in their search for their missing sixteen-year-old sister Bertha, Miss Marcia Chirurg, a pretty but sad-faced girl of eighteen, of the 'fells resident of the BOSTON AMERICAN.

Bertha Chirurg, a romantic and unsophisticated girl, who had spent her life at home and dreamed of her sisters, Sarah and Marcia, asking their way in Boston, joined for a career. She was lured from home by a miscreant whose letters have been found. With these clews the sisters are at work on the case.

"We will not cease searching until we find Bertha. We must find her," cries the brave girl who says that she nor her sister can sleep for grief and anxiety.

By Marcia A. Chirurg.

"I call upon the people of Boston to help me find my missing sister Bertha. She left her home in Manchester on October 6 and nothing has been heard from her since.

She was lured from home by letters in Boston papers offering girls an opportunity to get higher educations—to make for themselves careers.

Sister and I have been searching every-where for her. We will not cease searching until we find Bertha; we must find her.

My father, who is a physician with a good practice, was doing everything he could for Bertha, who was ambitious; but she wanted a career, she wanted to make a name for herself in the world, and was filled with the romance of running away and becoming great some day.

If Bertha but knew what these last three weeks have been to us I am sure she would not allow us to be tortured as we are being now. The suspense is dreadful, for we do not know what harm may befall her in this great city. She had a little money when she went away, but it could not last her nearly this long.

Fear She Is Detained.

We are hunting for her all of the time. My sister Sarah and I cannot sleep as we are dreading all the time that she may have happened to her. She was never away from home before, except once and that was when she passed a short vacation in the country.

Had she been inclined in the least to be wayward, our anxiety would not be so great, but she was so innocent, so little informed of the beasts of the world that it is awful to think of her being alone and among strangers and possibly the evil and unscrupulous.

We are sure she must be detained some where for had she her freedom she would not be so hard-hearted as to leave us in doubt as to her being well and cared for.

This worriment over the change in my appearance is turning my dear father's hair gray. Her actions have wrecked the happiness of our family.

Every morning I start out to hunt for Bertha. I tramp the streets until I am weary and footsore and my heart is heavy as lead within me. I have visited the police of several cities near Boston and they are doing what they can for us. They are very kind. I have called on a woman in Roxbury, through whom some of her correspondence was directed.

Ambitious for Career.

I have found that this is the first time that girls have been lured away from their homes through glittering offers of assistance to higher educations and careers. The state police are doing what they can.

I want the BOSTON AMERICAN and its readers to help me find my little sister, Bertha, who, after all, was but a child.

MISSING BERTHA CHIRURG AND SISTERS

On the left of group is Sarah R., and on the right Marcia A. Nearly heart-broken over the strange disappearance of Bertha from their Manchester, N. H., home, they are now running down every clue that may restore to them the missing girl.

GLIDDEN TELLS OF PLANS FOR AIRSHIP LINE

Boston to Worcester, Cloud Route, to Be Ready for Business by May 1, He Says.

THREE STATIONS EN ROUTE

"When does the next airship sail?"

This question may be common in Boston six months from now if the plans of Charles J. Glidden, Captain Thomas S. Baldwin and others interested in the projected aerial transportation line between Boston, Worcester, Springfield and New York come to successful fruition.

Mr. Glidden and other men are financing the new Aero Navigation Company, for which Captain Baldwin is to build a passenger airship of the dirigible pattern recently sold to the United States Government.

Captain Baldwin has just been in Boston to close the contract for the airship with Mr. Glidden, and is to start constructing the new aerial vessel as soon as possible. Meanwhile Mr. Glidden is seeking a location for an airship station at the Boston end of the line and at other points where necessary.

In Operation By May 1.

Captain Baldwin is confident that the aerial line will be in operation by May 1, so far as his end of the work is concerned.

"The company intends to start in with running the Boston-Framingham-Worcester end of the route.

Mr. Glidden says:

"I am now seeking a location for a suitable airship station somewhere between Massachusetts avenue and the Chestnut Hill reservoir. We need open space of course. The station will have to have a receiving platform and a shelter where the airship can rest out of the wind when idle, so as to allow keeping the gas in the balloon. This, of course, is a large item of expense.

"It is impossible to tell yet what will be the cost per passenger of an airship trip between Boston and Worcester. That will have to be determined when we get running. It will take $25,000 to start the work.

Long Waiting List.

"There will be plenty of passengers for the initial trip. Many people in this State are already on the waiting list. One flight cannot but be successful. I have seventeen applicants for trips on my own list and there are ever forty passengers all waiting to be taken up by the first dirigible which Captain Baldwin is to build must be run somewhere in New York State to Boston or Roundelle vicinity without making more than three stops en route. This is to guarantee the working power of the craft. For the beginning of the trips it is planned to have the airship run daily from Boston to Framingham and Worcester and back. It is thought than an average of one airship station every twenty miles will be sufficient, which would make three in all necessary for the Boston-Worcester schedule.

"Captain Baldwin says the new method of travel will offer great opportunities for young men.

"He must have pilots and captains to carry on the work. What we need most is the training young men for this. It is the young men who must do the work for the rest of us are getting old."

JOHN MITCHELL AGAINST BRYAN IN CAMPAIGN?

Former President of Mine Workers Declares He Is Not Supporting Any Candidate.

ADVICE TO WORKINGMEN

BUFFALO, Oct. 21.—John Mitchell, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, declares that he is pledged to no candidate or political party in this campaign. In Buffalo this denial that he is politically attached is taken to mean that Mr. Mitchell is not supporting Bryan.

The Buffalo Republican, a weekly paper, published a story to the effect that Mr. Mitchell had decided himself for Bryan, and at the same time purported to give an interview with him to that effect. In a letter by Mr. Mitchell, and published in the current issue of the United Mine Workers' Journal, the official organ of the Miners' Union, Mr. Mitchell asserts he is not lined up with any party or candidate.

That part of his letter which discusses his political position is in part as follows:

"I am sure that I shall not be charged with partisanship when I advise each citizen to examine carefully the principles and policies of the various political organizations, to investigate the character and standing of the candidates; to consider seriously the effect of the election upon the nation as a whole and upon their shielding of society in particular to which he belongs; and having done this, it is his duty to cast his ballot in accordance with his best judgment and with the dictates of his conscience."

PROF. NORTON OF HARVARD DEAD AT 80

Professor Charles Eliot Norton of Harvard College died at 1:45 this morning at his home on Irving street, Cambridge, after an illness of several weeks. His death has been looked for at any moment since last Sunday.

Professor Norton was eighty years old last November, and for several months he had felt severely the infirmities of old age. Although the members of his family and their nearest friends knew of his condition, news of it did not become public until last week. Last Saturday night Professor Norton began to sink, and since then the end had been only a matter of a few hours.

The funeral services will be Friday at 12:45 p. m. in Appleton Chapel.

DECLARES OIL TRUST NAMED OHIO JUDGES

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 21.—Frank S. Monnett, formerly Attorney-General of Ohio, addressed a large meeting of Utah Democrats at the Salt Lake Theatre last night. Mr. Monnett said:

"The reason I left the Republican party is due to the fact that while I was prosecuting the Standard Oil Trust in Ohio, and with every reason to expect a successful issue, the Republican campaign fund of Ohio was swelled by contributions from the Standard Oil Company, and in return that company was allowed to name the personnel of the Supreme Court of Ohio, whereupon all of the Standard Oil cases were promptly dismissed.

CAN KEEP AUTOS OFF BARRED STREETS

In the case of the Commonwealth against Arthur Kingsbury of Ashfield, Franklin County, testing whether selectmen of towns and Aldermen of cities have the right to exclude automobiles and motor cycles from certain streets, the full bench of the Supreme Court has decided that the Selectmen and Aldermen have that right. All exceptions in the case were overruled. Over forty cases of a similar kind are pending in lower courts waiting the Supreme Court decision.

BATTLED GALE IN SMALL BOAT; ONE MAN DEAD

Companion, Nearly Crazed by Suffering, Tells of Suffering at Sea.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Driven about for hours in a wave-swept skiff off New Haven breakwater and chilled to the bone by the cold wind, Charles Pringle, brother-in-law of Ralph W. Pike, a member of the Public Service Commission, and Howard B. Welsh, both of West Haven, Ct., were picked up early to-day by the Pritchard Peck of the New Haven Steamship Company, bound for New York. Pringle died a few moments after having been rescued.

Welsh was half crazed when rescued. He was rational by the time the Peck reached this port, however, and told a terrible story of exposure and a bitter five hour fight for life against cold, wind and waves.

The two men had rowed over to the north side of the bay yesterday morning and had bought during the day a lot of second-hand furniture. They started a dilapidated motor boat, and in the evening started to tow their purchase back to West Haven.

Let Barge Adrift.

The wind began to rise shortly after they put out. It blew more violently every minute, but by the time they realized that their situation was becoming dangerous they were fully half way home. They grew nervous, the waves were growing bigger all the time and every few minutes a couple of gallons of water came into the boat. They had only one oar of ours.

Pringle was only twenty-two years old and not a strong lad. Soon they began to bail out with every wave, and finding they couldn't stand the drag of the barge any longer they cut her loose and rode the swells a little better.

"By this time we were both soaked to the skin and Pringle said he was getting very cold. Finally he sank down in the bottom of the boat with his head resting partly against one of the seats.

Thrown into Sea.

"Then I threw out the anchor and tried to steady the boat, and worked to get Pringle aroused. He finally came around a little and made a good rally and I thought he recovered his mind. It was a good thing, for just a few minutes later the boat capsized. We clung to the underside of it and finally got it righted again. I got it and pulled Pringle aboard and then began to bail. He lost consciousness again. I don't recall anything about how we were picked up. It is all sort of hazy."

BLOOD STAINS ON PRISONERS, SAY OFFICERS

Men Arrested for Water Front Murder Case Bore Marks of Fray, It Is Testified.

Policemen testified to-day at the trial of the six Sicilians accused of murder in the second degree in causing the death, on the night of August 15, last, of Peter Z. Needham of South Boston on Atlantic avenue, that they found blood stains on the hands and clothes of some of the prisoners. Needham was a flagman on the Union Freight Railroad, and in a fracas between some Sicilians and some employees of the Union Freight Company, on Atlantic avenue, Needham was stabbed to death and two other railroad men were also stabbed.

The defendants are Guiseppe Carticselli, Pietro Di Piero, Antonio Orlando, Rosario Taormino, Guiseppe Zengari and Cesare Germanico.

All of the men in the dock were identified by one or the other of the police officers as having been arrested by them on the night of the prisoners were taken.

Officer William Wilson, who arrested Zengari, said: "After hearing about the trouble at the Union Freight yards I started to go there, but met three men coming up Richmond street. In the crowd was Carticselli. He was bleeding. I asked him what was the matter. He said 'trouble.' I told him to go to the Relief Station.

"I arrested Zengari and at the station I noticed that he had blood on both hands and on his shirt.

Policeman William F. Crawford said: "I found Orlando hidden under a piece of canvas. He was identified by Culley as one of the men whom the latter had seen in the fight.

"In another boat I found Officer O'Donnell. He told me to take particular notice of the hands of a man in the cabin who was getting on the shore. His hands were covered with blood. That man was Di Piero.

"We placed Di Pace under arrest after a struggle.

"At the police station I noticed blood on Taormino's shirt and hands."

R. H. SHERMAN PINNED 'NEATH BLAZING AUTO

Roland H. Sherman, a well known lawyer and son of Judge Edgar H. Sherman of the Superior Court, is confined to his home, No. 14 Everett avenue, Winchester, suffering from severe bruises and a nervous shock caused by an automobile accident in which he nearly lost his life last Friday night. The facts became known today.

Mr. Sherman's big touring car, in which he was driving alone, went over a deep embankment on Fowler Homes boulevard, between Somerville and West Medford. A skidding collision in the direction of the road, just after crossing a bridge, caused him to steer the machine over the embankment. The car turned turtle, pinning Mr. Sherman underneath.

He lay unconscious for fifteen minutes before residents of the neighborhood, hearing the crash, rescued him from the wreck which had been set ablaze by a headlight.

REPUBLICAN SLIGHT ON FLAG STARTS WAR

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 21.—Members of the Sons of Veterans' Camp of this city are incensed at what they declare is a slight put on "Old Glory" by the Republicans, who flung the national flag to the breeze with the names and pictures of their presidential candidates upon it. The protestants declare this is a violation of Federal statute and they threaten to appeal to the United States District Attorney.

Last Wednesday night National Committeeman Fred W. Estabrook entertained the Republican candidate for Governor, Colonel Quincy of Lakeport, Congressman Currier and Congressman Currier orated in City Hall and prior to the meeting the flag bearing the names and pictures of Taft and Sherman was suspended across Main street.

This act, the S. of V. men declare is contrary to the statutes of the United States which forbids using the stars and stripes for advertising purposes.

The matter will be brought up at the next meeting of the Q. A. Warren Camp Friday night.

James F. Prout, commander of the camp, is not a Republican, said:

"The boys all agree that the flag should be free from any descriptions and devices of all kinds. The matter will probably come up at the meeting very likely in the form of a resolution.

"I think that Chairman Hill of the Republican City Committee who is a lawyer should have noticed the rulings of the flag."

Some of the Sons of Veterans are very determined in the matter and if it is proved that the law is clear, will appeal to the United States District Attorney of New Hampshire, and if he does not act, to the President of the United States.

FINE TWO FOR SLOT MACHINE

On the charge of maintaining a slot machine with a lottery attachment, two men were fined in the Cambridge District Court to-day. The men on whom the fines were imposed are Morris Freed, a grocer at No. 68 Willow street, East Cambridge, and Webster J. Folsom of Lynn, who was said to be the representative of the company that owns the machine. Both appealed.

HARVEST PARTY BY E. B. C. L. A.

A harvest party will be held to-night in Commonwealth Hall, Meridian street, under the auspices of the East Boston Catholic Literary Association, one of the largest organizations in Noddle Island. Arthur A. Stout, chairman, William Norton and William McBoin, are the committee which has been directing the work of preparation for the event. Everything points to a most successful evening.

Through an error it was announced that the party would be a coupon party for the benefit of one of the members of the association in the BOSTON SUNDAY AMERICAN'S Sunday school teachers' contest.

You May Enjoy Your Meals

If You Will but Equip Your Stomach with the Right Means to Handle the Food.

If you go into a restaurant, cafe or hotel, where all your environments, the lights, dazzling linen, silver, cut glass, music, chatting and laughing women, seen to foretell of a pleasant meal, your stomach should not revolt when you read the menu card.

Heavy steaks, soups, oysters, entrees, salads, etc., should hold no terrors for the healthy stomach, and they do not.

A small box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets placed in your vest pocket will be sufficient guard against the mad revels of a worn-out stomach.

A tablet taken a few moments after a copious meal will remove any ill effects of food from your stomach and you may eat as generously as those about you.

One of these little tablets will of itself settle all questions of indigestion for that meal and will place your stomach and digestive organs in a better condition for the next.

Your blood will be enriched and the depleted gastric fluids will be rebuilt.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are natural, active, digestive agents who give to the gastric juices the elements they lack, which ease the stomach, remove irritation and enrich and stimulate the blood.

All of these statements may be verified if you will take but a little of your time to prove them.

Every druggist carries Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in stock and will tell you of their merit. These tablets sell for 50c per box, or send us your name and address and we will send you at once by mail a trial package free. Address F. A. Stuart Co., 150 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

PLAY AMERICA IN BELFRY AT PARK STREET

As the noon-day bells sounded to-day "America" sounded forth, sweet and clear, from the belfry of the Park Street Church and floated down to the surprised throngs below.

Upward glances showed a group of corset players, standing in the belfry above the Boston Common side.

The occasion was the one hundredth anniversary of the birthday of Dr. Samuel Francis Smith of Lancaster and Newton, who wrote the stanzas beginning "My Country, 'Tis of Thee," which were welcomed with their tuneful setting by people of the land and adopted into the patriotic literature of the land.

Her Very Own Business Best for Any Woman

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Beatrice Fairfax.

"ONE of my daily prayers," said a woman friend to me not long ago, "is 'Please, dear Lord, help me to mind my own business.'"

That is a clause that many of us might insert in our prayers, for minding one's own business is an extremely hard thing to do.

The reason for this is that your neighbor's business is usually so extremely interesting that it seems almost necessary that you take a hand in it.

Just remember one thing, and that is, never give your advice until it is asked for.

All people ask advice, and very few take it; so make up your mind before you give it that it probably will not be acted upon, and don't take offense.

Especially, don't advise your women friends regarding their clothes, for every woman has her own ideas as to what suits her, and it only irritates her when you advise her to the contrary.

Don't Ask Prying Questions

Never ask a friend where she has been or where she is going. She may have excellent reasons for keeping silent on the subject.

Above all, when you invite a person to do a certain thing, don't keep on urging her after she has refused, and driving her from one excuse to another.

If she is very anxious to accept your invitation, she will find a way of doing so, or her regret will be so genuine as to convince you of the sincerity of her excuse.

I know a girl who is always accusing her girl friends of extravagance. If one buys a new hat, she is sure to say, "Yes, it's very pretty; but didn't it cost a great deal? I thought you said you were not going to buy another hat this season."

Now it is none of my business if her friend bought fifty hats, but she can't see it in that way.

Three women whom I knew well lived together in a small apartment in perfect harmony for five years. The reason of the harmony was that each one absolutely minded her own business.

The Secret of Harmony

They loved each other and were always interested in each other's welfare, but no questions were asked. If one stayed out for dinner the other two never said "Where have you been?" but waited to be told; and if the information were not forthcoming, that was all there was to it.

They were not angels, these three, but just everyday women; and this state of serenity was only arrived at after much debate and several feminine "fusses."

Whether in business or social circles, try every day to mind your own business.

It is much harder for a woman to mind her own business than for a man, for the reason that man's mind is filled with larger problems and he has little time to spend in speculation as to his neighbor's concerns.

But Mrs. Jones, no matter how busy, can always find time to devote to Mrs. Brown's shortcomings, and to offer much gratuitous advice.

It might be a good plan to write out and pin over your looking glass the words "Help me to-day to mind my own business."

A Work That Women Should Do for Women

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American-Journal-Examiner

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

THERE are in the United States to-day hundreds of self-supporting women of middle age—women of culture and education—who have been unable to lay aside a sufficient sum for the exigencies of old age.

There are teachers, writers, nurses, doctors and business women who have been obliged to help indigent or invalid relatives, and who at the end of each year of unremitting labor find no sum saved for the "rainy day," or they find by failure of banks, and the necessity of officials in important positions, that the competence supposed to be saved, has disappeared.

It was with the thought of such women in mind that Miss Lillie d'Angelo Bergh urged me to use my pen in suggesting a united movement on the part of all women's clubs in America, toward the founding of a Home for Professional Women.

"The stage takes care of its retired and old actresses," said Miss Bergh, "but there is no fund, no home, for worn-out professional women in any of the arts or self-supporting avenues."

Just recently Ouida, the world-famous novelist, died in poverty; and two or three years since a woman whose name for a quarter of a century was known all over the reading world was found suffering for the necessities of life. A former friend, now living in England, learning of her misfortunes, took her home and provided for her future.

But such friends do not spring to the succor of all the unfortunates who drop, weary and spent "in the high road of life.

There are old ladies' homes, to be sure, in almost every town; but these institutions are almost invariably overcrowded, and are seldom such as would make the word "home" possess a meaning for the class of women of whom Miss Bergh spoke.

It would seem, as we consider the subject, that no other object of women's clubs could be more worthy than the establishment of a board of managers and the raising of a fund for a National Home for Professional women.

It is an object which will require time to perfect, and should be gone about immediately.

If the Federated Clubs were to take it in hand, and propose a small tax on every member for the nucleus of the fund, and then all the clubs in America were to give special entertainments—kirmises, fair or musicals—for the raising of the money, the amount could be obtained in a comparatively brief period of time, for the purchasing of the site and the erection of the first story of the institution.

It would be a glorious monument to the women of America if this work could all be done by, and through, women's organizations.

Men would, of course, be ready to aid with gifts of money; and men would be desirable on the advisory boards; and men would prepare the ground and erect the building; but the collecting of the means and the perfecting of the idea should all belong to the women of America.

Since the idea was suggested by Miss d'Angelo Bergh, and as she would be one of the first to give an entertainment to raise a fund, it might not be amiss to offer as a name for the institution "The D'Angelo Home for Professional Women."

But the matter is worthy of more attainted, such an institution is sorely needed, with a permanent fund for its support.

Here is a noble use for some of the accumulated wealth of some of our American heiresses and the wives and widows of millionaires.

Sermons in Stones---The Great Wall of China

By REV. THOMAS B. GREGORY.

IT was in the year 214 B. C., or thereabouts, that the Emperor Shi-Hwang-Ti determined to erect a grand barrier all along the limits of his vast empire, the object of which was to put an end forever, to the incursions of the wild Tartars that had given him and his predecessors so much trouble.

The result of this imperial decree was the famous Chinese wall, one of the most stupendous of all the miracles of human endeavor.

The Romans were master builders, but it seems that the Chinese were better for while the walls of Hadrian and Antoninus have crumbled to dust so that their courses can only be indistinctly traced here and there, the great Wall of China stands in many places as securely as when finished more than twenty-two centuries ago.

This wonderful wall is in all of its windings, more than 1,700 miles in length, reaching from the Gulf of Pechiuse westward to and beyond Socchu on the borders of Turkestan.

It is formed by two strong retaining walls of brick, rising from granite foundations, the space between being filled up with concrete.

Once a Magnificent Roadway

The breadth of the wall at the base is from twenty-five to thirty feet, and at the top from fifteen to eighteen feet, the height varying from sixteen to thirty feet. The surface at the top is covered with brick, and in former times constituted a magnificent roadway.

No pains were taken to select the best route, for the wall passes up steep mountains, down into wild gorges and ravines, and crosses wide rivers and valleys and plains, quite regardless of obstacles.

The old despot who ordered its erection had nearly a million people at his command. Tens of thousands of men were literally worked to death in the construction of the stupendous folly.

Like the great Napoleon, Shi-Hwang-Ti cared little for human life. "Build my wall," he said, "no matter how many of you are killed in the building of it," and the poor slaves obeyed him.

But Chinamen never forget or forgave the high-minded old tyrant, and to this day the best hated name in Chinese annals is that of Shi-Hwang-Ti.

This same old Shi-Hwang-Ti was also the original wielder of that most effective of weapons, the "Big Stick," and many was the head that he smashed with it.

He believed that "his policies" were the only policies, and that the salvation of China and the world depended upon the carrying out of his ideas to the letter.

Annoyed by Praise of Others

In the empire at the time were a lot of people who had the annoying habit of finding fault with the existing order, and forever prating about the good old days when everything was lovely and peaceful, and when the dear old man's teachings were closely and lovingly followed.

This made Shi-Hwang-Ti as mad as a March hare, and he told them that if they did not stop talking about the "good old days" and pay more attention to what he wanted them to do, he would make it "warm" for them.

Not believing in this admonition, they kept on, whereupon the Emperor began to whirl the big stick with a vengeance. He told them that the past should no longer exist, and forthwith ordered that all books having reference to the history of the empire, except those containing records of his own reign, should be burned; that all who dared to speak together about these books should be put to death; that those who should make mention of the past, or blame the present, should be put to death along with their relatives, and that any one found possessing a book of the proscribed sort, after a lapse of thirty days from the issuing of the decree, should be branded and sent to labor on the Great Wall.

Swung His "Big Stick" in Vain

Shortly after this edict was promulgated upwards of 460 "reformers" and scholars who had dared to cavil were decapitated.

But it is complimentary to the universal human mind that this old despot's decree was only partially effective. Even the Chinamen of twenty-two centuries ago rebelled in resenting the attempt to throttle the liberty of thought.

Curiously enough, it was during the reign of this same implacable foe of literature that the brush pencil, as at present used in China for writing purposes, was invented, the instrument through which the literature of China was to experience grand resurrection.

The Great Wall turned out but labor pains, and for the reign of Shi-Hwang's immediate successor the conquest of China was accomplished in spite of the Wall.

The old despot did not know that a nation in last defence is always to be feared in the manhood and courage of its people, for now arises the question that was answered so eloquently later on by Patrick Henry:

"What constitutes a State?
Not high-piled battlement or labored mound,
Thick wall or wreated gate;
No, Men, high-minded Men,
Who know their right, and knowing dare maintain."

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

FOR THE BEST

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I had been on friendly terms with a gentleman for some time and cared quite some for this young man until you day I met him and he was introduced. He asked me to go out with him the following evening, but I sent him a note requesting that he consider our friendship at an end. As I have a great many respectable friends who saw him in that condition, and as I was naturally proud, I felt as though I would be talked about were I to continue going out with him. I did not hear from him for about six months, when a week ago I received a letter from him asking me to forget the past and promising that it would never happen again. I have not answered the letter, as I feel I could not care for him again, even if we were to resume friendship, but will be thankful if you will advise what you consider the right thing to do, and also if you think I acted wisely, as I am very undecided.

MABEL.

YES, on the whole, I think that you did.

If you loved the man I would advise you to give him a chance, but as you do not, it is better to run no risk. The best thing to do is to write him a note, saying that you are extremely sorry, but that you feel that you can never care for him as you should. Tell him that you feel that it is better not to see each other again.

HARD TO SAY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A short time ago I became acquainted with a very handsome young man just one year older than myself, and the second time he came to see me at first. He paid me the most marked attentions, and I received from young men that I knew rather more coolly, perhaps, than I should have done. Now I did not like him much at first, but later in our friendship I found him to be very good hearted, in fact discovered that he had a very sweet disposition and a good deal of sense. He is also witty, and is a general favorite with girls with whom he is thrown in contact. Lately he has been treating me more coolly than he did formerly, and, although he is still nice to me, I feel that his interest has declined. Now, will you kindly tell me what course to pursue to regain the same place in his regard that I held at first? Do you think that if I treated him indifferently and went out with other young men it would arouse him?

M. F.

MY dear, it is very hard to account for a man's moods. Sometimes he will be of a girl for no apparent reason. But usually when his interest wanes it is because he has been attracted by some one else. You might try treating him indifferently, but I cannot promise that it will work. I would advise you to treat him as though nothing had happened.

To-day's Best Story

A TOURIST in an out-of-the-way region of England put up one night at an antiquated old lady's cottage, the village inn being full, says Harper's Weekly.

Now, the tourist was very deaf, which fact he took pains to impress upon the old lady, together with instructions to wake him at a particular hour in the morning.

On waking a good deal later than the time appointed he found that the amiable old lady, with a commendable regard for propriety, had slipped under his door a slip of paper, on which was written:

"Sir, it is half-past 8."

The Way to the Valley

THE way is long to the Valley of Rest,
Down in the dim, unexplored west;
But we'll reach the valley when God thinks best,
And enter its shadows sweet and blest,
Where there's never a rain of tears!

Well forget the gloom of the weary way
Where the thorns grew red along,
With answers sweet to the prayers we pray
The Spirit of Peace will speak that day
And the sigh will be the song!

And deep in the beautiful Valley of Rest
We shall pass from the stormy west and
With tired hands folded above the breast,
We shall say to the Silence how God knew best,
And dream in the light of God!

Katie Is More Than Seven, Age Experts Say

PUZZLERS are unanimous in declaring that Katie is plainly over seven, and well posted on her P's and Q's.

The inquisitive old party will receive enthusiastic assistance in his inquiry, but so far in the investigation estimates are widely varied, as witness by the following communications:

Dear Puzzle Editor—Katie is over ten, but not old enough to vote. She is exactly twelve.

O. SIMONS.

Dear Puzzle Editor—It is none of the inquisitive old party's business, but, confidentially, Katie is in her eighth year.

CATHERINE LOEB.

Dear Puzzle Editor—Katie is surprisingly equipped in repartee for a child of nine.

JULE O'NEIL.

Dear Puzzle Editor—Tommy is twenty-two and will cast his first Presidential vote for Hisgen. Katie is ten, and the inquisitive old party is old enough to know better than to ask impertinent questions.

GEORGE POOLE.

This is how the question arose. The impertinent old sport inquired Katie's age, and she up and spake as follows, imploring him not to tell anybody:

Tommy is now twice as old as I was when Tommy was six years older than I am now, and when I am six years older than Tommy is now, our combined ages will equal mother's age at that time, although she is now but forty-two."

HOW OLD IS KATIE?

After you have decided how many Summers Katie has seen, see if you can find hidden in the text under her picture the name of her birthplace.

One hundred puzzle books, full of puzzles, tricks and conundrums, will be awarded for best answers sent to the "Puzzle Editor," in care of this newspaper.

"Are you the bright little girl from Maine?"

"No; I am her stupid sister."

Tomorrow's Best Bargains

Money-Savers for Thrifty Shoppers Selected by an Expert

ONE OF THE BEST bargains to be found in a good warm waist may be had at F. F. O'Connor's, Fremont street stop to-morrow. Just thigh waists in odd styles, made of flannelette, in dark and light material, nicely tailored, and also in neat plaid silks. In red and green effects, that were from $3 up to $5, will all be marked to one price for clearance, $1.98. These are excellent value and come in a good range of sizes.

AN UNUSUAL VALUE IN A WELL made bath robe will be offered to Filene's customers on Thursday, when just forty-two robes made of fine quality camels' hair flannelette, and mink effects that would ordinarily sell for $4.50 will be placed on sale as a "special" at $2.98. The styles are made with shirred back, bound with self-colored satin on collar and sleeves, has silk frogs and a heavy rope girdle to match. Sizes run from 36 to 44.

AT CHANDLER'S, TREMONT STREET shop, just four dozen ladies' drawers that formerly sold for 75 cents a pair may be had on Thursday for 39 cents. This lot contains drawers of fine cambric and cotton, made with cluster tucks and fine hamburg embroidery on bottom. They are bargains.

AT JAMES A. HOUSTON'S ABOUT three dozen cumille jackets, made of fine quality percaline, that have been on sale selling for 59 cents, will all be reduced to 19 cents each on the above date. The style jacket has a three-quarter length sleeve with deep cuff, and is finished all round with button-hole stitch.

YOU WILL FIND SOME remarkable values in twelve-and sixteen-button length real French kid gloves at Shepard Norwell's on Thursday. A lot containing two dozen pairs of twelve-button length tan and black, of the 19 cents each grade, will be placed on sale for $1.90 a pair. These are exceptionally good bargains.

THURSDAY YOU CAN PURCHASE women's winter-weight underwear at Gilchrist's for about half price. One lot of fine quality jersey ribbed vests with hands to match, made of merino and three-quarters wool, the regular 75-cent and $1 grade, will be offered at 49 cents a garment. These are beautiful goods, the vests neatly finished with hand-crochet and the ankle length pants are made with elastic ankle bands. The sizes have been marked to this price as they are slightly imperfect, but in many cases so slight a damage it is hardly noticeable.

TO-MORROW AT J. G. SMALLS YOU will find almost one dozen ladies' fur-lined coats marked to $7.98 for quick clearance. These coats are fifty-inch models, made of black broadcloth, are fur lined and have large collars of blended squirrel. The former price was $12.98, but as a special to-day they are marked to this low price on Thursday.

Sayings of a Cynic

IT is easier for a poor man to be good than contented.

When a man's face is broken it doesn't break into smiles.

It's enough to discourage temperance reformers when money is tight.

The average man is more than one unlicked kick coming to him.

The patient only awaits an opportunity to practice the golden rule.

Every time a married man starts to settle down his wife stirs him up.

It's a wise man who can tell when he is getting the short end of the argument.

Every time a man lets them run off present he expects a dollar's worth of thanks.

It is time we were almost through with poor relatives as his rich relatives have for him.

Every man is firmly convinced that there is the making of a hero concealed about his person.

The average man would rather admit that he is wrong than admit that his fellow is right.

The man who figures on doing a little of everything never cuts much of a figure at anything.

It keeps some men so busy being important that they haven't any time left to accomplish things.

When a man begins to shout his good deeds from the housetop, it is your cue to look in the cellar for his evil ones.

Relatives who are remembered in the will never mourning, and those who are not do a little mourning on their own account.

Minnie V. Lofthouse Who Crosses Sea to Wed Manufacturer

HANDKERCHIEF WON FAIR CLERK RICH HUSBAND

The passengers who sailed from Boston aboard the Cunard liner Saxonia and their friends who were down to see them off yesterday were much interested in a pretty group of young women who surrounded a rosy-cheeked, dark-eyed girl, who seemed to be vastly interesting to them. They hugged her and kissed her half a dozen times, and then, singly and in chorus, chattered all kinds of good luck and farewells, and the ship was far down the harbor before they stopped waving their gudepeeds.

"It was like this," one said: "You see that was Miss Lofthouse, Minnie V. Lofthouse. It's such a romance—a perfect dear of a little story. She came from Leicester, England, three years ago just to work for a living. She got a place in B. E. Jones Company's store, handkerchief counter, in Brockton.

"One day an awfully nice looking chap came in and bought a handkerchief. Said he'd lost his handkerchief. Came back next day and said he'd have bought all in the store.

"He was in love with Miss Lofthouse, I don't blame him. Well, he gave her his card—after he had been introduced like a gentleman—and it showed him to be Alfred Russell Dick, manager of a shoe factory at Firth, Italy. He was over here studying shoemaking in a Brockton factory. He asked her to marry him, and she's going to. That's all.

"She's bound for home now, and they will be married next week at the father's place outside of London. He's a real swell, got lots of money. Wasn't she lucky?"

PROCTER & GAMBLE NAPHTHA SOAP

From an Ohio Woman.

She says P. & G. Naphtha Soap is the greatest labor saving soap she ever used.

With the permission of the writer, we make the following extract from a letter which an Ohio woman sent us some time ago.

"I want to let you know the great good I have derived from the use of P. & G. Naphtha Soap. A sample bar of it was left at my home. After using it, I have no use for any other soap. It will do just what it said of it. I have proved it beyond a doubt. I use it for washing everything.

"I do hope that all the less fortunate wives and mothers like myself will learn of it and profit by using it. It is the greatest labor-saving soap I ever used. I keep no help of any kind. Have a family of four children to sew, wash and iron for, and the merits of your soap have surely been thoroughly tested by me. You are at liberty to use my name if in any way it will help to get P. & G. Naphtha established as the best soap manufactured."

Each Man Must Decide Own Marriage Problem

—Rev. Dr. Samuel M. Crothers

Marriage is a personal experiment which each individual must decide for himself, is the opinion of Rev. Dr. Samuel McChord Crothers, pastor of the First Parish Unitarian Church of Cambridge. Dr. Crothers has given the BOSTON AMERICAN his opinion on the great question of how much a man must earn before he marries. Dr. Crothers believes that individual circumstances govern each case. Temperament and personal efforts are weighty factors in the matter, he says, and no arbitrary opinion can be given by an outsider. Men and women will follow their own ideas, he believes.

Dr. Crothers is an able essayist, a member of the International Congress of Religious Liberals and famed for brilliance and wit. He has been called "The Charles Lamb of America." His books, "Members of One Body" and "Miss Muffet's Christmas Party," are widely known.

This is his opinion of the marriage problem:

By Rev. Samuel M. Crothers.

No hard and fast rule can be laid down as to whether a man should marry on such and such an income. It is a question that every individual must deliberate upon and decide of themselves and for themselves.

It is a big problem, and there are so many different phases to it that all must be considered before any proper conclusion can be reached. Circumstances figure in it, and the personal element counts for a great deal. Taken as a whole, it is a difficult economic problem.

Some people can live and be comfortable on an income that another person would find inadequate for their needs. It all depends upon the person.

No Right to Arbitrate

I think it is well for a bachelor to advise and counsel a couple not to marry on an extremely small income, but I do not think any one has the right to influence the matter for the two people concerned.

Men in different walks in life require different things. You know it isn't the actual necessities of life which cost such a great deal. It is the many countless little things that we come to consider necessary to our happiness that consume most of our money.

Some of the people who have a weekly income of $12.50 often find it easier to make both ends meet than others who receive $20. The elements of personal tastes, personal thrift and the way a person has been in the habit of living count a great deal in the consideration of what a couple can live on.

For instance, there are many men in the ministry who are not earning any more perhaps than the laborer. Yet think what a difference there is in the demands on the income. There is a certain amount of social entertainment that is absolutely necessary in the minister's home from the very nature of his work, and there are items of dress that must be figured upon by him that never enter into the laboring man's accounting.

Some people can live and even save money no matter how small their income, and others never seem able to save no matter how much they get.

Something Wrong.

Certainly if the wages of the majority of the workingmen are so low that they are unable to marry there is something wrong somewhere. But it is generally supposed that labor now demands and receives a higher wage than ever before, and I understand that the feeling is that it cannot go much higher at present. Of course the cost of living has also increased, which fact must be taken into consideration.

Then again some of the young men now at the foot of the ladder will later on achieve great things. Many of them they will succeed and get ahead, no matter what the circumstances.

For example statistics show that a certain amount of money is absolutely necessary for a young man to go through Harvard. Yet there are numbers of young men who come here without a cent and go through the college in comparative ease. They have had in them that will win out over seemingly overwhelming odds.

It seems to me that a young man can tell what is possible in regard to marriage from his experiences up to date. If he has been able to take care of himself and by something aside then he can safely be safe in marrying. If on the other hand he has not so far been able to get along and has not saved anything, he is not justified to marry.

Of course, if a young man marries a young woman who is thrifty and capable, who can make things herself to save expense, the husband is very often able, under those circumstances, to get along better even than when he had only himself to support.

If a young woman sees that a young man has health and spirit, and she feels that he will at some time work his way to the top, marriage would not seem so absolutely impractical even on a small wage. Marriage is not all a question of money. Thrift and industry often count more than a few extra dollars.

The church sometimes helps families whose income is sufficiently large for their requirements, but who are somewhat incapable of getting along through lack of certain qualities which are necessary for success, no matter what the income may be.

One's plane of living, one's tastes and habits have a great deal to do with whether or not a small income is a safe basis for marriage. An inexperienced man would find it difficult to get along on any income, while a temperate, industrious, thrifty man could live in comparative comfort and save something besides."

Dr. Crothers on the Marriage Problem

It all depends upon the person.

Some men who receive $12.50 a week find it easier to make both ends meet than others who get $20.

Thrift, personal tastes and habits of living count for a great deal.

If the wages of the majority of workingmen are so low they are unable to marry something is wrong somewhere.

Much depends upon the woman a man marries.

SOUVENIRS FOR WOMEN AT THE COLISEUM FAIR

Souvenirs, really valuable souvenirs, given away are one of the really distinctive features of the Boston Food Fair in the Park Square Coliseum. To-day, for instance, the first 500 hundred women who purchased admission tickets were presented with a complete copy of Sousa's popular march, "The Fairest of the Fair." To-morrow the first one thousand women who buy admission tickets are to be given packages of macaroni.

On Friday, after 10 a. m., the first five hundred women getting tickets are to be given hat pins, scarf pins, neck chains, etc. Emil Mollenhauer, leader of Stewart's Boston Band of seventy pieces, now at the Park Square Coliseum, promises to give Rossini's "Stabat Mater," complete, as the second part of his evening's program.

The second part of the Friday night concert is to be composed of Wagnerian music. The first part of Saturday evening's concert is to be made up of Gounod's music.

The children and teachers of the Perkins Institute for the Blind in Watertown, the School for the Blind are to be the guests of the management of the Boston Food Fair to-morrow afternoon.

Omaju, the Hindoo mystery worker, who, apparently causes a heavy palace and appears to eating unsupported through space, is still drawing thousands who marvel at the demonstration. No one has been found who can give any explanation whatever of this remarkable performance. Nothing in the Boston Food Fair, and there are hundreds of interesting things, can be compared to this inexplicable act of the strange man from the far East.

$10,000,000 IN NEW CARS

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—An official of the American Car and Foundry Company stated to-day that in the last two months the railroads of the United States had ordered between ten and twelve thousand cars of various kinds, exclusive of Pullmans. The average price was $1,000, making the total value of the cars not less than $10,000,000.

It is expected that after the election the car manufacturing companies will be swamped with orders. In the last year railroads made but small purchases and all of them are in need of new equipment of some kind.

CAUGHT AFTER LONG CHASE

Edward Massey, alias William Johnson, alias Ernest Adams, said by the police to be a desperate man with a long record and whose picture is in the rogues' gallery, is in the Tombs to-day awaiting arraignment on a charge of picking pockets.

Massey was captured last evening after a thrilling pursuit through an elevated train and along the long platform at Battery station, thence down the steps, where two officers joined Joseph Hurley of Arlington, who missed his pocketbook, and then trailed the man until he was captured.

RICH CANDY MAN MARRIES PRETTY NURSE

George F. Schrafft, the rich candy manufacturer, is back in Boston after a honeymoon to New York with his bride, formerly Miss Bertha Brown, a handsome young woman who recently nursed Mr. Schrafft through a serious illness of typhoid fever. The couple were secretly married at Medford, Miss Brown's home, last Thursday, and the first news of their marriage was given to Mr. Schrafft's brother by his chauffeur who drove the couple to the South Station immediately after the marriage ceremony. Mr. Schrafft's friends and relatives had no inkling of his intention.

Two Summers ago Mr. Schrafft was taken seriously ill. Miss Brown, one of a family of girls noted for their beauty, attended him. After he had recovered Mr. Schrafft could not forget his pretty nurse. He kept up the acquaintance begun in the sick room and became a suitor for her hand. She reciprocated his love, and they planned a wedding, to which their friends were to be invited.

However, Mr. Schrafft became too impatient to wait for conventionalities, and Thursday he rode in his auto to Medford, where, at the home of Miss Brown's sister, the marriage was performed. Then the couple hurried back to Boston, took a train for New York and passed their honeymoon there.

Mr. Schrafft is treasurer and half owner in the candy firm of Schrafft, Page & Sons. With his brother, William, he carries on the business. His wife is the niece of Representative Charles Brown of Medford. She has several sisters, all of whom are famous for their beauty.

Why Does It Do It?

Not because it is Sarsaparilla, but because it is a medicine composed of more than fourteen different remedial agents, effecting phenomenal cures of troubles of the blood, stomach, liver and bowels.

You do not find all these ingredients in any other medicine. All of them are of the very best quality. Many, having specific action in these troubles, are the identical ones the medical profession prescribe whenever these ailments manifest themselves.

This is no secret to the profession, but the combination and proportions which make Hood's Sarsaparilla are not known, except to ourselves, and herein lies the reason why you will get better results from it than from any other medicine.

It cures scrofula, eczema, eruptions, catarrh, rheumatism, anemia, nervousness, that tired feeling, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, general debility, and builds up the whole system.

We hope for your own sake that you will buy a bottle to-day and that to-morrow you may begin to realize the benefits it will surely impart to you.

Sold in the usual liquid form or in chocolated tablets called Sarsatabs. 100 Doses One Dollar.

JACK TWIN LOSES TO HART ON FOUL IN FIFTH

Prepared to see a great heavyweight contest, the members of the Armory A. A. filled the immense amphitheatre to watch something classy when Marvin Hart, the Louisville slugger, and Jack Twin Sullivan, the Cambridge ex-tipcart driver, got to exchanging their stock in trade, but they got a big bunch of disappointment, as the bout terminated in the fifth round, when Hart was awarded the decision on a foul.

The battle fell short of expectations on account of the abrupt ending and poor exhibition of both men, Hart giving indications of making a star in a longshoreman's mitsup and the Twin being unable to cope with such a ponderous foe was on the defensive for most of the short distance traveled.

Hart had what margin there was in every round, rushing the Twin all over the ring and causing the Cambridge boy to do some of the fanciest hugging to clear up the lives on of beef bearing him down.

Hart's forty pounds of extra weight counted in his favor, and he took the fans by storm by his aggressive methods, as he set the pace in every round and would have surely earned the award if he could have maintained the same speed for the twelve rounds.

Sullivan the Favorite.

Sullivan was the favorite over his heavier rival, as Hart was figured about being all in, but he surprised the gathering by his fast action and gave the famous stalling Twin no time to spar for time, but went to him from the start, breaking through his guard and battering him with hard rights and lefts to the body and head.

It looked bad for the Twin from the beginning of the mill, and when he hit low lightning of the mill, and when he hit low in the second round and dislocated it in the third round there was a new evidence of his wanning to lose in the most graceful manner he could.

Hart went away with the Twin's mean-ace at short notice, and had Sullivan hanging on to save himself, while Hart vainly tried to shake him off in order to land, but the Twin was the hottest bee that ever happened and caused the fans to roar at his hugging tactics.

They had hardly got started in the second round when Sullivan slipped a left hook to the groin, Hart howling that he had been fouled, but did not stop fighting. He tore into Sullivan, fairly frothing at the mouth in his anger, and started to sweep the Twin off his feet by the sheer force of his rushes.

The Twin managed to weather the storm of the Kentucky slugger, ducking wild rights and lefts for the jaw, and was on deck for the third spasm.

Hart is Fouled by Twin.

They had hardly got under way when the Twin sent his left under the belt again and the referee warned the Twin. The Twin must have been hard of hearing, for after taking a bombardment from Hart's powerful left swings on head and body he again directed a punch under the belt like Hans Hart, who appeared to see a picture of a badly injured fighter, as he made the result as evidenced when Hart agreed to go on again after a brief rest. Sullivan was quick to see that another offence would cause him to lose the fight.

The fourth round was as clean as could be expected. Sullivan would occasionally foul, but he slipped his trolley again to the fifth.

Hart started out to jab the Twin's bald pate with a heavy straight left, and he tried his old-time battle tactics, only to be met with a left hook that would have landed on the jaw of any other fighter, but Hart crumbled like a leaf and was carried to his corner, Sullivan helping in the act. The referee did not hesitate to give Hart the award, and an examination by the club physician left no doubt that the heavyweight from the Blue Grass State had been dealt a foul blow.

Claimed Hart Quit.

Sullivan claimed that Hart quit cold, but there was little doubt in the minds of the majority of those who witnessed the affair that Hart was too big for and he took desperate measures to save himself a deserved licking.

Hart entered the ring looking too beefy, as his paunch bulged over his belt and this was the point of attack by the Twin, but could not get through, as Hart crouched and kept too close to the Twin to receive an effective wallop.

When Referee Dan Donnelly decided in favor of Tommy Dawson of East Boston over George Murray of Lynn in the first preliminary of eight rounds there was a wild demonstration of disapproval, as Murray appeared to have earned a draw. Eddie Carr of South Boston won a close decision from Billy Conaty of Cambridge in eight rounds.

Bout by Rounds.

ROUND ONE—Hart started off like a whirlwind, rushing and causing the Twin to jug hard in the clinches. Marvin opened up his right haymaker and it whizzed by the Twin's head. He unloosened it again and Sully clasped his pinky fox in desperation and fell to the floor. Hart slammed his right over the Twin's head and drove right for time, holding on like a vise. Both jabbed and got in some hard blows. Hart chopped with his right on the Twin's bald pate, but on his second attempt the Twin blocked. Just before the bell Hart whipped over his left to the jaw while they were close up and caught the applause of the crowd.

ROUND TWO—Hart came on with a Jeffries crouch and let go right and left when he got within range, but he failed to land, as the Twin pulled out of danger. As Hart rushed, the Twin hooked with his left and landed below the belt. He claimed foul, but kept on fighting, furnishing a maddened bull and growling at the Twin as he tried to crush him to the floor by the sheer force of his rushes. The Twin had to go down to the floor every time Hart stood up under the onslaught, but managed to duck till the bell.

ROUND THREE—Hart slammed a right to the body and repeated the operation twice. Then the Twin stepped into Hart as he rushed and landed a left hook to the groin. The referee saw the low blow and warned the Twin, and Hart, maddened to a stage of fury, rushed and missed as the Twin drove a terrific right to the kidneys and then with his left with execution on head and wind. Sully stopped it again with his low left and this time Hart went to the mat like a stone and was pounded by his corner while the Twin was waved back to his. Hart did not appear disabled after an examination and agreed to continue after a rest and came up for the fourth round.

ROUND FOUR—The Twin led a light left to the head. Hart jabbed a left up with the same place. Hart got hurry and it was a close range mixup. Hart landed a right to the head. He went to the Twin, and appeared to be trying to finish him with a left hook to the stomach. Both men slowed up as the referee stepped in.

ROUND FIVE—Hart began a tapping match with his left and lashed Sullivan around the ring with straight jabs, making a target out of the Twin's features till the Twin suddenly stepped in with his left whip and shot it into Hart's groin below the belt. The Kentucky giant went down on his face and then dropped like a log, writhing in pain and lay doubled up on the floor. The ring rat in a second grabbed him and hauled him to his corner, with the Twin also hopping at every step. Donnelly had previously warned Sullivan that he would be disqualified, there was nothing for him to do but give the award to Hart.

MARVIN HART WHO WON ON A FOUL FROM JACK TWIN SULLIVAN.

The Kentucky giant, Marvin Hart, showing all his former aggressiveness when he fought George Gardner and Kid Carter in the Hub several years ago, was awarded the decision over Jack Twin Sullivan in the fifth round of their scheduled 12-round bout at the Armory A. A. Beside his lighter opponent he looked big enough to pummel the Cambridge boy through the ropes.

MIDDIES IN SHAPE FOR CRIMSON

Harvard realizes that it has a task on its hands to beat the Middies on Saturday and it will be the first time this season the Crimson has come to the test of its football stamina, for the Navy has a real lusty looking gridiron array this year and are out to triumph over the big fellows.

The fierce scrimmage in the Stadium on the first practice day of the week speaks volumes for the opinion of the coaches over the approaching battle at Annapolis on Saturday, and as a result several of the good players on the varsity squad were used up.

The former players who caused their names in the newspapers of football fame at Harvard are making their appearances on the field to help Head Coach Haughton mold a formidable combination up to meet Yale, and they are driving the men the limit so as to allow for no setback in any of the preliminary engagements, and the setto with Uncle Sam's young admirals has put them on their mettle.

In all probability the practice to-day will be of the stiffest kind, as the second team is beginning to show its power and the record of three touchdowns on the varsity main defense will make the varsity players rip things up to get even for such treatment.

An unexpected weakness in the defence of the first string of players has come to light and the coaches will use every effort this time out to remedy every defect in that direction. They are more satisfied with the offence as the players carrying the ball and rolling around the game has proved a distinct feature of all the games played.

Favorable reports of the Middies in action comes from their stronghold. A game was scheduled for Wednesday but was cancelled, as the coaches did not care to take any chances with the men getting damaged for the big skirmish with the Crimson.

Trainer Jack McMasters is naturally anxious to show the institution he once worked for that he is still to be considered as a competent of Eatherer and is working overtime to get the Middies in perfect shape.

CHESBRO SAYS WILSON IS A WONDER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—In Pitcher Pete Wilson, the star of the Hartford team of the Connecticut League, it seems as if the New York team has picked up a slight class somewhere. Few left-handed pitchers have met with success in the American League during the last few years, but Wilson appears to be the goods. According to "Jack" Chesbro he has the best curve ball of all youngsters that ever broke in, not barring "Doc" White. The veering curver thinks Wilson will have an easy time making good. Already he has beaten Boston, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Washington.

Dutchlders Cree and Mellveen, both look as if they would do. Cree is fast and a hard hitter. Mellveen is a lefthander, a clever batter and a fast man on the bases as well as an excellent fielder. That these two players will strengthen New York there is no doubt. A bad feature in connection with both is their failure to play ball on Sunday. Should they become regulars it would break the team up badly to have two-thirds out of the line-up on the Sabbath day.

BOSTON TROTTERS BEATEN BY A PROVIDENCE HORSE

By ED. COGSWELL.

"Well, what have you got to say about that?" were the exclamations heard from the amazed spectators when the Providence gelding, Jim Dandy, took into camp the classy trotters of the Hub in straight heats at the matinee of the Metropolitan Driving Club over Charles River Speedway.

When S. L. Tingley, owner and driver of the grey, had landed the opening heat by the lengths in 1:04¼, Trainer Dodie K., the champion of the course in the Spring series of matinees, the wise pickers only picked Jim Dandy to win and said: "Watch the next heat has been decided and note the difference."

True, in Mack Mack there was a new factor in the race, but though he made the finish awful close and was going terrific at the wire, Jim Dandy managed to survive the final 100 yards, yet the latter had to call on every ounce he was to give him a clean victory over Mack Mack and the balance of the field, which included, besides the one mentioned, the crescent gelding Sid Axworthy. The time of the last heat was 2:07¼.

Naturally this time looks slow for the first class of trotters, but it was entirely due to weather conditions. In the first place the track was slow, while an east wind blew up the speedway directly in the faces of the horses. It was calculated by experts that this caused the time to have been fully three seconds slower than usually would have been the case.

Claymos Beats My Star.

Claymos had a snap in bowering the colt out of My Star in the feature pacing event, though in the initial heat the winner was obliged to chalk up 1:03¾ to gain the verdict.

Knapp Faushaw occupied the seat back of Tom Flatz in place of Owner Isaac Sexton. It was pleasing to the numerous admirers of the former speedway champion to trotter that he won off the reel over some formidable opponents as Alcedes, Billy Wilkes, Talpa and Lord Quex in 1:08, 1:08¾. In the final trip W. D. Hunt went after Alcedes, and by his expert handling his work in vain, Tom Flair winning by a half-length.

The longest race of the extended card was given to Dexter Jr., who took into camp, in four heats, Dexter Jr. annexed the first, Simona the second, Commodore Forbes the third, and then, of course, Simona the fourth. Dexter Jr. was withdrawn before the third heat, as he lost a shoe in the second, and was unable to start in the third.

Will Sexton paraded a reliable trotter in Alice S., in the talking short work for her to defend the goods, and her first heat in the very creditable time of 1:07¾. Jed Bradbury steered Lady Ethel Direct with a slick pacer named Tower D., 2:19¼, by the Lord Direct horse, to win the first trip in 2:10 to get the candy. Bradbury bought this mare from a well known horseman early in the Summer, then started him in six races and never had him out of the money, and getting second money in two. He nets the tidy money.

Furbush Lands Billy Ross.

W. J. Furbush snapped up a nice victory with H. H. Cook's gelding, Billy Ross, in the fourth heat of the 2:15 pace. Walter Farmer's pride, but in the next two he was not to the front, though it was very close at the finish. Sir George got the verdict in the final heat, and second honors in the race was 1:07½.

Charles Bell paraded a stylish three-year-old pacing filly in Lucy Belle, by Bingen Direct, dam Lucy Wilkes, by Walter. The gamster in which she seemed to wearing the colors of Bell was at once manifest by her many admirers. Best time, 1:12.

Trainer Leonard of East Boston started his new find, the pacer James, 2:12¼, and when the sounds of battle had ceased he was heading the summary. Best heat in 2:08¼. Dan Cupid, the consistent performer of C. Reid, in 1:12; Harry Bingen & Son's Spencer, in 1:08¾; Sam Hastings, in 1:08½; Dean Swift G. B. Thompson, in 1:07¾; Pat Ryan, in 1:08¾, and Miss Thompson, in Ranee Wentworth, in 1:10, and Jim D. B. Carpenter, in 1:30.

Jeff Says All Are After the Money These Days
MODERN BOXERS GREEDY

BY JAMES J. JEFFRIES.
Retired and Undefeated Heavyweight Champion of the World.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 21.—It's a difference of opinion that goes to make up the world. I have had this fact brought closely home to me since writing my article of two weeks ago. At that time I dwelt upon the fact that the present-day fighter is more or less money-mad and made a statement which I now repeat that I never asked a fight promoter to guarantee me a dollar, but always took a chance.

Since then I have been besieged by letters on this subject. It is hard to be convinced that there are any persons who claim to be well posted on pugilism who have that idea now in the ring are understand, but such is the fact, according to the correspondence that I have at hand.

I have answered a number of these letters personally where I thought the occasion, or rather the mental caliber of the writer, justified. Here is the case in a nutshell: What right has a boxer to say to a promoter or club official that he will work only if guaranteed a certain sum instead of going ahead and working on a percentage or share basis and taking a chance on the size of the house?

Boxers Admit Their Own Weakness.

It is equal an an admission that the boxer does not consider himself a good drawing card, and at the same time he wants the promoter to take him up, advertise the battle, handle all the details, shoulder the varied and disturbing responsibilities and then throw himself open to a take or leave it proposition. Just the gate receipts will equal some high sum. A fair, square deal is what this means and will draw into the box office, no more, no less.

I could quote some interesting figures on my own personal earnings as a drawing card, were my confidence in this respect, or my faith in my own powers as a drawing card, were not misplaced. In the case of my Coney Island battles I never drew less than $50,000, a pretty comfortable figure for two boxers and a fight club to split, don't you think? I am a poor hand to remember figures, that is, to be exact, but there was something like $68,000 to the house the night I won the heavyweight championship from Bob Fitzsimmons in 1899.

When Tom Sharkey and I fought we did so before a comfortable attendance of something like $71000, to say nothing of the handsome prospects. My Eastern fight with Jim Corbett drew in the neighborhood of $11,000.

The enormous sums paid out by the public in support of the game at this time were traceable to two things—the great amount of interest in the heavyweight championship and the fact that we were battling at a place which was within easy access of the sports of the largest city in the United States.

Draw $52,000 in Coast Fight.

That the locality alone was not responsible for the heavy patronage of the game was shown when I moved across the country to San Francisco. Jim Corbett and I drew close to $52,000, and Gus Ruhlin and myself were responsible for something like $40,000 coming in at the gate. This last sum would just about cover what Bob Fitzsimmons and I drew with our second engagement.

Speaking of Fitzsimmons and Corbett brings to my mind the fact that the latter was, in my opinion at least, a much better fighter than the public ever gave him credit of being. They called him "Gentleman Jim," and said that he was a great boxer, but more than that, he was a great fighter.

It has been said that Jim Corbett couldn't punch, but I am willing to swear faced the big fellow in the ring had to do a lot of it to keep me off him. However, I consider Corbett one of the greatest fighters that the game has ever known. He was the skilled boxer, the ring general and the fighter all in one.

If Corbett had one weak point it was the unfortunate fact that he did not possess the physical makeup to withstand a gruelling battle. Nature undoubtedly having been endowed by nature with a slender frame, comparatively speaking, Corbett used his great brain and made of himself the cleverest big man that the world ever known. On the defensive, Jim Corbett had no peers, and the fact that he was capable of meeting the one weak point in his fighting armor and of handling it up to triple strength makes Corbett, according to my way of thinking, one of the greatest heavyweights that ever held the title.

We have often been asked whom I considered the greatest middle-weight in the game. Jack Dempsey, without a doubt. Not that I would cast any reflection upon the Papkes, Ketchels or Kellys of to-day, but I could consume an entire column here in praise of the "Nonpareil," and even then I would not be able to say it all. He is the one of the present-day fistic followers, the younger generation that has sprung up, that I would like to understand why Dempsey was so beloved by all, who knew him and said: "Watch for the next beat has been decided and note the difference."

True, in Mack Mack there was a new factor in the race, but though he made the finish awful close and was going terrific at the wire, Jim Dandy managed to survive the final 100 yards, yet the latter had to call on every ounce he was to give him a clean victory over Mack Mack and the balance of the field, which included, besides the one mentioned, the crescent gelding Sid Axworthy. DENNISON TO DRIVE KNOX CAR IN BIG RACE

By J. C. KERRISON.

At Dennison, who time and again has driven Knox cars to victory on both the road and track, has been selected to drive the big Knox in the Vanderbilt cup race, still, he taking the seat vacated by Charles Basle. Basle's retirement from the Knox team was not caused through any dissatisfaction with his work, but rather because Dennison is more familiar with that particular car than is Basle, who has formerly confined most of his driving to cars of foreign construction. This will be Dennison's first race of international importance and it can be taken for granted that he will do his best to show well to the fore.

It is understood that not only will the Thomas cars entered will not be at the starting line on Saturday, having been determined to withdraw the same. Gill and Richards will be the drivers of the two Thomas cars, and according to all reports they are doing some decidedly fast work in practice. Both are regarded as fine, recorded in practice have been made by Robertson and Florida both driving Thomas bikes. They have done the lap in twenty minutes and are considered as two of the most dangerous men in the race. Jimmy Stricker, who was injured in trying out Saturday last, expects to be out of the hospital in season to drive the seat of Robert Graves's Mercedes. The car has been rebuilt and will start Stricker feeling that he will drive the same, although a reserve will be on hand in case he is determined best for Stricker to witness the contest in the grand stand.

Many Bostonians are going over to witness the race and a special train will be conducted A. P. Underhill, Frank Crockett, R. B. Rose, Dr. Shaw, Dr. Bigelow, with Dr. Langmaid, L. P. Webber, Josiah E. Hatch, Jr., and E. Morrison, Hardy & Co., and Dr. Parks, Billy Gray and J. W. Maguire.

Same as Boston Boy Wins Prize.

Miss Helley of the Studebaker Company speaks prettily of Boston in connection with Lord Manager Daniels. Both gentlemen were highly complimentary regarding the present condition of the automobile trade, which has been very good in this section of the year. Manager Redden expressed himself as being very much pleased with the showing made by the Studebaker in the recent endurance run of the Massachusetts Automobile Association. He believes that such contests do an incalculable amount of good for the industry in general, as they bring out the reliability and efficiency of a motor car—a car such as is built and delivered to the customer and one not constructed for special purposes. Such contests, he believes, are of practical value, and in this his ideas are shared by Mr. Pulitzer, who is recognized as one of the most profound thinkers in the industry today. Mr. Pulitzer, who is a Hereford steer, Resident Manager W. H. Hilliard has been personally active in the work of the new duplicate of the model which he drove in the Glidden Automobile Association endurance contest, likewise in the sweeping out of the prizes which fell to the lot of my Coney Island battles I never drew less than $50,000, a pretty comfortable figure for two boxers and a fight club to split, don't you think? I am a poor hand to remember figures, that is, to be exact, but there was something like $68,000 to

BASEBALL NEWS AND NOTES

The Giants will not immediately begin training in a new place, but will start off on a transcontinental expedition.

The latest "Ally" Gleason, infielder of the Philadelphia National League team, will be manager of the Portland team next year.

The annual meeting of the Kansas City baseball club will be held next week, and at the meeting the question of a new baseball park will be discussed. The meeting will open at 12 o'clock noon. The meeting will be held at Chicago on Tuesday, November 10, at the Auditorium hotel.

Manager Bill Sharsig has secured by draft for the Montreal team Outfielder Hoy of Worcester, Mass. He has bought Bayless and Walker from Lowell, Mass., and Hoffman from the Connecticut League club and Manager Daniels has drafted Pitcher Bowerman from Worcester.

The annual meeting of the Kansas City baseball club will be held next week, and at the meeting the question of a new baseball park will be discussed. The meeting will open at 12 o'clock noon. The meeting will be held at Chicago on Tuesday, November 10, at the Auditorium hotel.

Joe Mcginnity tells how he gained the name of "Iron Man" Joe. He says that he was first pitched with Roseburg, pitching six games out of seven in a week, and he won them all. This was in Oklahoma, Ind. Ty.

Manager Bill Sharsig has won 25 and lost 16 while Brown with pennsylvania has won 25 and lost 10. Brown has pitched in 40 games and Sharsig in 41. Brown has pitched 350 innings to his credit which was the remnant in a song, while Manager Sharsig has pitched 350 innings and 1 out. Considering that he was six men of the season Sharsig's record is considered a wonderful one. Brown pitched the most games of any pitcher in the league this season. He was taken sick during the season and was confined to his home for several weeks recovering. Despite this he won 22 and lost 15 games. That year was a memorable one for Brown. He had most of the fastest games to pitch, but he won 22 and lost only 6. He was the best pitcher of the year in his league. That year Chicago won the pennant, with New York second.

What is to become of organized baseball. That is the question now before the ruling minds of baseball position. If the national commission steps up the standard recommending three still more stringent eligibles let to those players who have been in the game for five years or more, baseball will be in a bad way. Many players will be thrown out of baseball. Many players will be thrown out of baseball. Many players will be thrown out of baseball

7 DEAD AS STEAMER AND TENEMENT BURN

HUDSON RIVER LINER DESTROYED AT DOCK; CROWDED N. Y. BLOCK SET ON FIRE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Four men lost their lives when the steamer New York of the Hudson River day line, docked for repairs at the Thomas S. Marvel shipyards at Newburg, caught fire early to-day and burned practically to the water's edge.

Almost at the same time an alarm was sounded for an incendiary fire in the five-story tenement house at No. 83 East Third street, in which three persons lost their lives, four others were injured and sixteen families had thrilling escapes from death.

In the steamer fire one of the men, a negro waiter, lost his life in a dash aboard the blazing vessel from which he had once been rescued by an officer in mere $200 he had left in his bunk. The fire started from an exploding lamp.

Forty-three men, including Captain A. H. Harrower, were asleep when the fire started in the crew's quarters astern soon after midnight. Many of the men escaped wholly nacked and many were rescued from the water.

The dead are Joseph Matthews, Frank Simmons, J. Jenkins and H. J. Smith.

No Steam for Power Pumps.

The entire bow of the boat was ablaze when Captain Harrower came on deck in his shirt and trousers and ordered the crew to man the pumps.

This was impossible, as all the fires had been drawn in preparation for the overhauling of the vessel which had been docked for repairs yesterday afternoon at the Thomas S. Marvel shipyard.

With no steam for the power pumps, the hand pumps were the only recourse for the first half hour. The situation was made worse by the fact that the vessel was far from any hydrant.

Two of New York's engineers started for the engine room in the wild hope that steam might be raised, but they were quickly driven back by great bursts of flame.

Two alarms of fire, quickly followed by a third, were sent out and Firemen responded promptly, but the distance of the hydrants handicapped the pumps.

The flames had reached the stern of the doomed vessel before streams could be played on the burning superstructure.

5,000 Attracted by Blaze.

Five thousand persons gathered at the pier and watched the progress of the blaze. As man after man leaped from the New York cots were thrown about them and they were hurried to the United States Hotel.

For a time it seemed that the flames were certain to reach the Trojan, the new 7000 ton steamer which replaced the old Troy line which is to be launched next Monday.

The bow of the New York extended across the Trojan. When the fire was at its height a light breeze from the south-east blew the flames against the Trojan's cradle. The cradle took fire in many places, but the firemen quickly got on it and soon had the Trojan out of danger.

THREE LIVES LOST IN TENEMENT FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Three persons are dead and four others were injured in an incendiary fire which early to-day created a panic in the crowded section about the five-story tenement house at No. 83 East Third street. Sixteen families had thrilling escapes from death.

Scores of women and children through the bravery of firemen and police were taken from the closed fire escapes. Many children were dropped to the arms of waiting firemen in the street by policemen. Mrs. Lydia Moscowitz died shielding her babe from the smoke and flames.

Police are searching for an incendiary whose motive is said to have been revenge. The owner had recently reverted to its original owner after litigation on the mortgage.

Police Sergeant Fogarty and Policeman Frank Curry ran to the burning building when the alarm was given by Isadore Keavers, the janitor of the building. Dispatching Keavers to the fire house, two blocks away, they started in to arouse the sleeping families, when they were met at the lower floor by a blast of flame and smoke.

The rear of the basement, used as a storage house for the tenants and for two stores in the building, was a roaring furnace, and the fire was sweeping rapidly to the upper floors. Curry entered the building, and Fogarty, entering the building adjoining No. 83, ran to the second floor, reached out of the window and along the cornice to the fire escape of the burning building.

As he appeared shrieking women clad in night attire began to pour down the ladders, and as he reached the lowest platform of the iron work the lower fire ladder was seized by shrieking and affrighted lodgers, who pleaded with him to save their lives.

Admiral Togo Receives Fleet Officers in Empress' Botanical Gardens.

Special Cable to Boston American.

TOKIO, Oct. 21.—Boundless hospitality continues to characterize the reception of the fleet visitors. When the Emperor was told that the sailors of both navies strolled the streets with locked arms to-day he remarked that pleases me more than anything that has happened.

Admiral Togo gave a garden party to-day at the botanic gardens, the favorite resort of the Emperor. All the American officers who could be there attended. This is only the third time in history that the Gardens have been open to the public. There was a great gathering of distinguished Japanese, including Field Marshal Oyama, Prime Minister Katsura, General Terauchi, the Japanese Minister of War, and Marquis Matsugata, the former premier.

The American officers and the American colony were delighted at the feeling the Japanese were showing. Prime Minister Katsura gives a dinner and dance at the Gardens to-night.

GIRL SLAYER, CRAZED, FIGHTS FOR FREEDOM

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Nellie Waldron, who shot and killed her former sweetheart, Edward McDonald, in his home at No. 115 Greenwich avenue, Greenwich, is a raving maniac to-day. While being transferred from the Tombs district hospital to the Kings county hospital she broke away from a policeman and an ambulance surgeon and dirted down the street.

She was caught after a chase of about two blocks but fought like a tigress. Time and time again the girl threw both of the men, who were strong and powerful, aside like babies.

After being placed in the ambulance she grew calmer but it took several hypodermics before the girl tried to leap out.

Under the care of the Tombs physician she is hopeful of recovery.

The girl was to have been arraigned in the Manhattan courts to-day to submit to trial on the charge of murdering McDonald, whom she shot while he was dressing him self in his home.

EXPEL GIRL WHO REFUSED TO PLAY SPY

Pauline Jones of Fitchburg Balked at School System; Father Sues City.

THE FIGHT ON FOR MONTHS

Special to the Boston American.

FITCHBURG, Oct. 21.—Thirteen-year-old Pauline Jones seeks $5,000 damages from the city of Fitchburg, alleging she was excluded from the public schools because she refused to spy on her schoolmates.

In a system of "municipal government" the pupils are supposed to govern themselves, and Pauline was detailed as a "school policeman," a role she did not like.

The suit is being brought on her behalf by her father, William Jones of No. 79 Fairview street, through his attorneys, Walsh & Walsh. The papers have just been filed in the office of the clerk of the Superior Court at Worcester. Tals action brings to an issue a controversy which has upset the school department and caused much discussion among the Fitchburg parents. Meanwhile the "municipal government" plant in the Abbotsham Street Grammar School, where Pauline was a pupil, has been abandoned.

The trouble originated last March when Pauline, considered one of the brightest girls in the public schools and the brightest pupil in the eighth grade of the Abbotsham street school, was sent home by Principal George F. Hopkins because she would not play policeman and spy up on her schoolmates, according to the rules in operation. Since that time the trouble has been the subject for debate at every meeting of the school committee. Some of the members have been favorable to the girl's side, but the majority have steadfastly refused to go back on the principal. John E. Dempsey, chairman of the school committee, with whom Principal Hopkins has backed, upholds the latter.

Girl Tells Her Story.

To a reporter for the AMERICAN Pauline Jones reviewed the incidents of the case to-day. she said:

"My father has tried in every way to settle the trouble without going into the court, but the school authorities would not listen, and so father had his lawyers file the paper. Mr. Hopkins never had any just reason for sending me home. He and a system of municipal government, as he called it, with a mayor, policemen, etc. The policemen were supposed to watch the conduct of the other pupils and report if they did anything wrong. I refused to act as a spy on the other girls and boys and I think I did right. I always was a good girl in school, as Mr. Hopkins will have to admit. He would not listen to reason, however, and gave me no chance to explain my position. He just sent me home. I am now attending a private school and hope to become a stenographer some day."

William Jones, the girl's father said: "I started the prosecution because I found that it was useless to attempt arbitration with the authorities. They will not listen and they uphold Mr. Hopkins without making any at empt to learn the facts. I hope to see that I am being done a grave injustice. I am not even given a hearing. I think my little girl has been imposed upon and I am going, to fight the case now if it costs my last dollar. I have received the encouragement of many of the best people in Fitchburg, who think that I have not been given a square deal. I am determined to have justice or know the reason why. I sent my little girl to school to learn, not to play spy on the girls and boys."

System Is Discontinued.

Superintendent Joseph C. Edgerly said: "The case was first reported to me by Mr. Hopkins, the principal, and I have talked with Mr. Jones. No all three girl's father. I told both that they should settle it themselves. I make it a point never to interfere in such matters until I find that the principals in trouble cope with the situation. In this instance Mr. Hopkins has not told me as yet that he is unable to handle it. The school board has not made an investigation, to my knowledge, although they know of the trouble, because notice was sent to them of the suspension of the girl."

When seen by a reporter Principal Hopkins refused to discuss the case. He would not say what his position or his connection was at the time he expelled the girl and he would give no reason for refusing to consult the girl's father with regard to it. At his school, however, he is the supreme municipal government form of rule.

PASTED PLASTER ON PUPIL'S LIPS; FACES ARREST

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Oct. 21.—A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Miss Edith Wirt, a school teacher, because she pasted a strip of court plaster across the lips of Harvey Gallaway, a nine-year-old pupil, who talked too much in school. The warrant was sworn out by the boy's father, and charges cruel punishment.

CULLINS CASE STORY DENIED

The investigation by Chief Urquhart and Inspector Hooley of the Arlington police station matter in the neighborhood of North Cambridge, led to the report that a new suspect was sought in the Mullins case.

Chief Urquhart to-day said:

"Inspector Hooley and I investigated a matter entirely foreign to the Mullins case. We did not, however, discuss our errand and this led to wrong conclusions on the part of a reporter for a morning paper."

BIG SCHOONER IN DISTRESS

GALILEE, N. J., Oct. 21.—An unknown three-masted schooner flying distress signals was sighted here when the fog lifted at 10:30. She had apparently been anchored awaiting the lifting of the fog. A strong northeast wind is blowing, and it is feared her anchors may not hold.

Life-savers are ready to take off the crew, and tugs have been asked for to try and tow her in to-day. She lies in a perilous position, and should her anchor drag would probably be a total loss.

GANZEL HAULED UP BY GAME WARDEN

GRAND RAPIDS, Oct. 21.—John Ganzel, manager of the Cincinnati "Reds," was overhauled by a deputy game warden on board a train in Lake Cnya and his bag of game confiscated on the ground that he is a non-resident of the State and not entitled to hunt here without a permit. Ganzel has for many years resided in Michigan, his parents having a farm near Kalamazoo, and Ganzel himself lives in Grand Rapids.

PETS STRAY DOG; RABIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Richard Wasman, fifteen years old, who lives at No. 94 Madison street, it as Bellevue Hospital, suffering from rabies. Several weeks ago the lad was bitten by a stray dog which he picked up on the street. The wound was cauterized and it healed within a few short time. Nothing further was thought of the matter until yesterday, when the boy displayed symptoms of hydrophobia. He is being cared for in a special room at Bellevue. The physicians there have small hopes of saving his life.

TWO ARE INJURED IN TROLLEY CRASH

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Oct. 21.—A combination passenger and express car on the Atlantic Shore Line Street Railway, while rounding a curve at Hutchins Corner, near the Kittery Point carbarn, left the track and crashed into a construction car on a side track. Motorman Bunker of Kittery, in attempting to escape, was pinned to the vestibule and badly injured.

GIANTS FREE AT N. E. FOOD FAIR

The encouragement of matrimony is a novel feature of the New England Food Fair in the Mechanics Building. Any couple engaged to be married, if they consent to have the knot tied in the big exposition hall, will have the license fee paid for them, as well as the cost of the ceremony. There will be an abundance of valuable presents showered on the lucky couple in addition.

To-day is giants' day at the Mechanics Building Fair. Every person six feet six inches in height or over, is admitted free. To-morrow is Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers Association day. It is under the auspices of this association that the fair is given and there will be a record attendance by the members. Yesterday was Actors' day at the fair and every concert performance in Boston this week was well represented.

CROSS VIEWS ON AIRSHIPS

EDITORS FOR TECH PAPER

Two directly opposite opinions on the future of aerial navigation are offered by two Boston astronomers for public discussion to-day.

Henry Helm Clayton of the Blue Hill Observatory looks forward to the time when great airships, carrying hundreds of people, will cross the ocean.

Professor W. H. Pickering of Harvard Observatory says it is doubtful if aeroplanes will ever cross the ocean.

Technology's student newspaper, The Tech, announces to-day the appointment of William Bunken Green of Brooklyn, N. Y., to the position of editor, and George C. Kenney and L. G. Glazier to associate editors.

Holman I. Pearl of Boston has been made managing editor, and M. W. Hopkins of Somerville, assistant business manager and secretary of the editorial board.

Positions on the Tech are competitive. About thirty men are out for the paper this year.

Isaac Gordon, a prominent lawyer of the South End, has been selected by the members of the Hebrew Independent club of Ward 9 to run for the Common Council this Fall. The selection was made after a bitter contest. Solomon Sacks, the present Councilman, was defeated by a vote of 84 to 90.

15 TO 30 YEARS FOR SWINDLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Frank C. Mosher, who was won international fame as a swindler, was sentenced to not less than fifteen years and not more than thirty years in prison by Judge Dike in County Court, Brooklyn, to-day on a charge of perjury.

Mosher was a lawyer and politician in Brooklyn up to thirteen years ago, when he fled after swindling a number of clients with fake mortgages. From one woman, Mrs. Barry, he obtained $70,000. He was the famous Colonel Franklin Bronk, who engineered the Storey cotton swindle in Philadelphia.

COMMON PEOPLE MUST BATTLE PLUTOCRACY

—William N. Osgood

SAYS THESE ARE THE GREAT FORCES BEING DRAWN UP AGAINST EACH OTHER.

WAKEFIELD, Oct. 21.—William N. Osgood and Robert J. McCartney, Independence League candidates for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor; Michael O'Neil and Alexander Cohen of Boston, will be speakers this night at a rally conducted by the Independence League in Dudley Hall. Mr. McCartney explained how Lieutenant-Governor Eben S. Draper, Republican candidate for Governor, lived in Boston three years ago, and discussed the reasons why the Independence League offers a better opportunity to the working people than any other party. Both candidates were cordially welcomed and applauded when introduced.

Mr. Osgood opened his address by telling his hearers that the cause of the new party is rapidly gaining ground throughout the state. The meetings, he said, have been well attended, and the enthusiasm of labor there made up of thinking, patriotic citizens. At the close of the meetings, said Mr. Osgood, many have come forward and pledged themselves to go forth and battle for the cause party and its candidates.

Chance for Labor and Capital.

Mr. Osgood said: "There is every indication that the voters are convinced that the most effective way to secure equal opportunity for labor and legitimate capital and to destroy the power of special privilege in dictating the high prices for the necessities of life is to aid in the purpose of the Independence party to organize the citizens into a permanent political organization, such as is demanded by modern conditions.

"We have political machines controlled by bosses in both of the old parties, and each of these in turn controlled by outside forces which have become more powerful than the government itself. These forces shape legislation to their own interests, and corrupt the people's representatives, and because the citizens themselves, those who constitute the plain people, of whom Lincoln delighted to talk, were not politically organized.

No Man a King.

"The trouble is, that the average American citizen is laboring of old. He thinks like the Roman citizen of old. He thinks it is only necessary for him to grow himself up to his full height, radiate himself and declare that he is an American citizen, and consequently a king whose rights and liberties no one dare infringe. But I say he is deluded and mistaken. He is not a king. The sovereignty of the republic is in the people composed of about 100,000,000 of souls. So the individual citizen, instead of being a king, is but the small fractional part of one. Individually he can do little indeed. By organization only can he effect reforms and progress.

"This demonstration clearly the impending need of political organization. This lends me to say a word concerning the great political battle that is now imminent not only in the present but in future campaigns between the great forces that are being drawn up against each other in the United States.

The Fight With Plutocracy.

"These forces may be designated as a platform composed of the trusts and monopolies of public utilities that are rapidly and dangerously controlling the wealth of the country, on the one side. The other force is represented by the common people of the land, both laborers and moderate capitalists, small merchants and manufacturers. These two forces are engaged in a great struggle. The plutocracy has the advantage because naturally organized. The interests of a million dollars in Boston are identical with the interests of a million dollars in Chicago or San Francisco, and readily yield to the law of supply and demand, and may be easily manipulated and transferred from one part of the country to any other part where greater interest or demand prevails.

"The other force represented by the individual citizen, who has only personal rights and a little property cannot so readily respond to the law of supply and demand. If wages are higher in San Francisco than in Massachusetts he cannot always receive the increased reward. He may be a party paid for home, and children may be at school. He may have many bent ties and obligations which prevent him from going to a distant locality where his might better his condition.

People Must Organize.

"Therefore, it is not fair or humane to insist that labor or wages like capital so interest depends upon the cold and unfeeling law of supply and demand. Hence, I say that it behooves those of moderate means, whether laborers or small capitalists to organize artificially. This is absolutely necessary for them to do, if they hope to cope with excesses against trusts and monopolies, the enemies of our institutions and the republic itself.

"This is what the Independence party is striving to do, to organize the people of the United States for political action for their own protection. The news from all parts of the Commonwealth, and, I may say, from the entire country, indicate that the people are prepared to take that step which will ultimately reclaim the country from those enemies which are already secured too firm a hold, and threatening ills which may require years to remove."

ROXBURY MEN BOOM LEAGUE CANDIDATES

Phelan and Kidney Promised Support of Leading Merchants in Ward 17.

WAR ON THE TAMMANYITES

More than 100 business and professional men of Ward 17, Democrats and Republicans, met in Harmony Hall, Warren street, Roxbury, and indorsed the candidacy of Charles J. Kidney for Congress, in the Tenth District, and Thomas F. Phelan, the Independence League nominee, for the House of Representatives, John Wessels, a prominent leather merchant, presided.

Thomas F. Phelan, when presented, said: "I come before you this evening and ask your support in my fight for a seat in the lower branch of the Massachusetts Legislature as an independent from Ward 17. I ask you, no matter what your politics, to give me your vote.

"The organization of both the leading political parties in this ward is rotten and corrupt. This is a broad statement to make, but I am sure of my ground and know the condition. One master controls them both.

"The Tammany Tiger" long ago swallowed the Republican machine organization in this ward. Is this not a vile state of affairs, fellow citizens?

Day of Judgment Near.

"No decent people live than the residents of Ward 17, whether they are Republicans, Democrats or Independence Leaguers, and it is a crying shame that their good names have been dragged in the mire of political corruption and the ward made a laughing stock and held up to ridicule and scorn of the whole community.

"Let the honest citizens, who are in a great majority in the ward, buckle on the armor of righteousness and rally to the standard of the Independence League and scatter the mists of political corruption that clouds the horizon of decent citizenship and the sun will shed its rays on a regenerated community.

"Grafters, political bosses, ledge looters and slaughter house promoters have too long dominated the rights of the citizens in this ward. Vote for the Independence League candidates as a protest against those political vultures who have been preying upon the public.

"The Independence League is the foe of the Tammany Club in Ward 17, and although its so-called leaders have been successful up to date, the handwriting is on the wall for all Tammanyites, and it says: 'The days of our pride and glory have perished. The day of judgment draws nigh.'"

War of Corruptionists.

Charles J. Kidney said:

"A solemn duty is ours; every generation has its problems to solve, the last generation had its Spanish war to settle, the present generation before that its Civil war. This generation has to face the war of corruptionists and has to battle to save the Union from internal disruption.

"The Independence party has arrived none too soon upon the scene, and it is the duty of every individual, no matter how conservative or humble he may be in the community, to come forth and enlist in this holy cause. When you vote vote the whole ticket from top to bottom.

"We are running in this district for the Legislature Thomas F. Phelan, who is thoroughly competent to represent the district in the Massachusetts Legislature, and it is high time that a few new lights were set on Beacon Hill."

Kidney's Platform.

Don't be afraid to vote Independent. No man owns you; you are your own master and the smallest man out is the one who consults his own conscience and marks a free, independent ballot when he enters the voting booth.

Heretofore the party has made great strides among former Democrats and Republicans in awakening of the Republican masses, and many of them for the first time in their lives will vote the Independence League ticket.

"Fellow citizens, I promise you that if elected a member of Congress from the Tenth District I will favor reciprocity, a revision of the tariff and the immediate dropping of all tariff rates on merchandise controlled by trusts.

Robert J. McCartney, who was the New England president of the iron molders when Eben S. Draper broke his pledge to the molders and ordered the employes to withdraw from the union, says:

Every workingman who wishes to make his protest against Eben S. Draper most effective will vote for William N. Osgood, the candidate of the Independence League, for Governor.

STUNG AGAIN! NO REDUCED PULLMAN RATES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21.—The cheerful news which a day or two ago came out of the West that the Pullman Company had decided on a horizontal reduction in rates on their cars is not corroborated in official quarters here.

Inquiry at the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day, where the reductions would be filed, developed the fact that the same old rates were the standard and official ones.

It is believed, the Pullman Company has not notified the commission of any change in rates as required by law, and until it does and allows thirty days to elapse the present rates will prevail.

AUERBACH TO WAGE LIVELY WAR IN 9TH

Junius T. Auerbach, a well-known attorney of Boston and who was a potent factor in obtaining 80-cent gas for the people of this city, is an Independence candidate for Congress against Congressman John A. Keliher, who is seeking a fourth term, something that was never given the late Patrick A. Collins or Hon. J. O'Neil or former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, all of whom had great influences in shaping Washington legislation. Congressman Keliher won his last nomination over former Congressman Joseph O'Connell, East Boston's only Congressman, and who was only after one term.

Mr. Auerbach is going to make a vigorous fight. It is believed he can be elected, as he has always been a staunch champion of the people and is in favor of the big navy which would mean so much prosperity to Charlestown, a part of the Ninth district.

In an interview with a BOSTON AMERICAN reporter Mr. Auerbach said:

"My campaign will be the showing of evidence to the jury of voters. I am going to tell nightly what Mr. Keliher has done and the service that an upright, conscientious worker would have done for his district. The voters can then compare the two candidates and the one that suits their ideas best has a right to be elected and will be.

"A record that will not bear discussion and inspection must be withdrawn. I don't think mine will suffer by being exposed. Mr. Keliher's record stands on the voters in Danville, Ill., but it has never been properly presented to the Ninth District.

"I am going to tell it, compare it, analyze it and make it as nauseatingly public as I can. Who ought to be president or governor is not an issue in this campaign. It is the only question is, will the district choose a representative who will be a lackey of Republican Senators, a wire for the Republican machine, or a man of the people?

"If work will convince and win the vote, the citizens of the district will send Mr. Keliher to some painful business recognition. He has made a far better record than some

PRAISE HISGEN OIL FIGHT AT VAHEY RALLY

"Up in Springfield we can buy oil cheaper than they can in other cities of the Commonwealth. That is because we have competition up there. If you had competition in Boston the price of oil would be cheaper here."—Ex-Mayor William P. Hayes of Springfield at Vahey rally in Gray's Hall last night.

The audience at last night's Vahey rally in Gray's Hall, South Boston, was treated to a different political speech when Mayor Hayes of Springfield that the people of his city are indebted to Thomas L. Hisgen, Independence party candidate for President, for being enabled to buy oil cheaper than the people in other sections in the Commonwealth.

Mr. Hayes discreetly avoided mentioning Mr. Hisgen's name. The applause at mention of "Hisgen, Hisgen—that's who he means!" first put through the hall made it evident that most of those at the rally knew the story of the low prices of oil in Springfield as well as Mr. Hayes did.

The audience enjoy of Mr. Hisgen by Mr. Hayes and the assertion by Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell that "you don't have to think about Byran around here" were subjects for discussion by their hearers after they left the hall last night.

Disappointment awaited those who went to the Vahey Hall rally, announced by Executive Chairman John F. Meaney's announcement that Congressman Joseph F. O'Connell, ex-Congressman William S. Murray and ex-Governor John L. Lincoln and Thomas J. Collins have forgotten their differences and joined hands to be pounded to speak in Mr. Vahey's behalf from the same platform in Gray's Hall.

The announcement fell flat. Congressman O'Connell was the only one of the four-star combination and the only Boston man to speak.

RIDDLE REGAINS HEALTH.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 21.—John W. Riddle, the American Ambassador, returned to this city from his sojourn in the south of Russia, where he has been recuperating from illness. His health is now completely restored.

Like soap to the skin are Cascarets to the bowels. Use them like soap—in small doses and regularly. It is nice to keep clean inside.

It is a great deal more necessary to keep clean on the inside than on the outside.

Cascarets are more important than soap.

The pores of the skin may become clogged with dirt, but they don't absorb the impurities.

The pores of the bowels do.

There are myriads of pores in the bowels, the duty of which is to absorb the nutriment from food.

That's how we get our nourishment.

But if the bowels are sluggish the food is delayed. It decays and forms gases and poisons. Then those pores of the bowels suck poison into the blood.

That's how we get our ills.

We urge the habit of cleanliness.

Don't wait till you need a physic. That leaves too much of the time when you are only half well.

Keep yourself at your best.

The right way is to carry a box of Cascarets with you. It fits the pocket or purse. Take one just as soon as you know that you need it. It is gentle and sure.

Cascarets are candy tablets. They are sold by all druggists, but never in bulk. Be sure you get the genuine, with CCC on every tablet. The price is 50c, 25c and

Receipt That Cures Weak Men---Free

Send Name and Address Today—You Can Have It Free and Be Strong and Vigorous.

I have in my possession a prescription for nervous debility, lack of vigor, failing memory and lame back, brought on by overwork, that has cured so many sick and nervous men right in their own homes—without any additional help or medicine—that I think every man who wishes to regain strength quickly and quietly should have a copy. So I have determined to send a copy of the prescription, free of charge, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, to any man who will write me for it.

This prescription comes from a physician who has made a special study of men.

I think I owe it to my fellow man to send them a copy in confidence, so that any man, anywhere, who is weak and discouraged with repeated failures may stop drugging himself with harmful patent medicines, secure what, I believe, is the quickest-acting restorative, upbuilding, SPOT-TOUCHING remedy ever devised, and so cure himself at home, privately and quickly. Just drop me a line like this: Mr. A. E. Robinson, 4007 Luck Bldg., Detroit, Mich., and I will send you a copy of this splendid receipt, in a plain, ordinary sealed envelope, free of charge.

THE BOSTON AMERICAN

80 AND 82 SUMMER ST., BOSTON, OCTOBER 21, 1908

One Thing at a Time

That Is the Way for You to Talk Politics to Your Friends

Only a few days more, readers, then we all vote. Then we learn the result. Then we settle down and think it over.

All American citizens worthy of this country and its opportunities, AND ITS FUTURE ESPECIALLY, take seriously their power as voters. They are thinking earnestly and talking to their friends earnestly.

Upon those that are our friends we urge the importance, in thinking and talking, of taking ONE THING AT A TIME.

In the nation, on the side of those that call themselves radicals, you have Hisgen, of the Independence party, opposing Bryan, of the so-called Democratic party. Study these gentlemen and their records in detail.

Mr. Hisgen has fought Standard Oil and won and maintained himself.

Mr. Bryan's platform maker and treasurer—until Mr. Hearst's revelations had him kicked out—Haskell, was BOUGHT by Standard Oil while Hisgen FOUGHT Standard Oil.

Taking one thing at a time, which word appeals to you and your vote, the word BOUGHT, represented by Bryan's side of the case, or the word FOUGHT, for which Tom Hisgen stands?

Men talk to you from every corner, and every cart, and every platform, each asking for your vote. Study the things they say and advocate, ONE AT A TIME.

Mr. Bryan's principal cure for all troubles is, just now, the bank guaranty. That idea simply comes down to this, and you can make nothing else out of it. HE WOULD COMPEL THE HONEST, DECENT BANKER TO PAY FOR THE BANKER WHO IS A THIEF, AND MAKE GOOD HIS STEALINGS.

Is that your idea of a remedy? Do you think that the government of a great country should compel the honest man to pay for the dishonest man? Or do you think the government should put the thief in jail and encourage the man that is honest?

Taking things one at a time, THAT is the question for you to decide on Mr. Bryan's bank guaranty.

Mr. Hisgen has worked his way steadily as an average American citizen, a worker, a fighter, an employer, respected everywhere. He has been working while Mr. Bryan has been talking. You hardly ever heard of Hisgen, he was only fighting the Standard Oil, FIGHTING FOR THE RIGHT THAT EVERY CITIZEN VALUES, THE RIGHT TO MANAGE HIS OWN AFFAIRS, and then Bryan was talking, and you almost heard nothing but Bryan.

Taking one thing at a time, would you rather have a man that has made a good, ordinary fight for his own rights and for YOUR rights, the man that proposes to go on now as your official and continue that fight?

Or would you rather have Bryan, the man that has talked, and talked about himself, and talked differently almost every month, and certainly every year?

Mr. Pouren Will Not Go Back to Russia—at Least We Think Not

But How Disgraceful Are the Efforts to Send Him Back! What a Shame to This "Free Country"!

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal Examiner

There lies in the Tombs prison in New York, where he has been for almost a year, Jan Janoff Pouren, a Russian. This man's "crime" is HIS EFFORT TO MAKE HIS OWN COUNTRY FREE, AS FREE AS THIS COUNTRY. AND THIS COUNTRY PUTS HIM IN JAIL!

For long months this unfortunate man has stayed in prison. And every hour of his imprisonment has been a bitter disgrace to the people of America. The matter has been presented officially to Mr. Roosevelt, who has the power to act. It is inconceivable, it is unbelievable, that action should have been delayed so long.

Pouren is one of the many noblemen that have risked their lives and shown their courage in the effort to make Russia free, and to punish the brutal tortures of the Russian people.

Russia, of course—the Russia that the Czar represents—WOULD LIKE TO GET HER PAWS ON POUREN. And Russia has appealed to our State Department demanding the return of Pouren as a common criminal.

To his everlasting disgrace, Shields, the Commissioner of Immigration, has decided against this man. But we say confidently to the friends of Pouren, to the friends of liberty everywhere, and to the Americans that still take pride in this country's character, THEY NEED NOT FEAR THAT SHIELDS WILL SEND POUREN BACK. That disgrace will not be put upon us.

Unfortunately the man has been kept in jail for months, this champion of liberty has been locked up like a common felon, while so many felons are at large in our glorious "free country," and that disgrace, that insult we cannot wipe out.

By some it is believed that the liberation of Pouren has been postponed and postponed by the Republican administration, to be used just before election as valuable campaign material. For our part, we don't believe this. Mr. Roosevelt is a theatrical person, but that is hardly his style of theatricals.

We believe that the trouble lies in the fact that the fate of Pouren has been handed over to the discretion of Elihu Root, the man that disgraces the office of Secretary of State of the United States.

Root, in his moments of business, is the highly-paid attorney of the great trusts that have succeeded Tweed as the nation's great robbers. Root works for them, the great robbers of to-day, as he formerly worked for Tweed, the great robber of his day.

Our big trusts want friendship and favors from the Russian government. Our Standard Oil Trust, our Steel Trust, our Agricultural Implement Trust, WANT RUSSIAN MARKETS.

If Root could establish the precedent in Pouren's case, and hand back patriotic friends of liberty that Russia wants to hang, Root would earn from the trusts that hire him the friendship of Russia, AND WHAT WOULD THE LIFE OF ONE HONEST MAN MORE OR LESS BE IN A GLORIOUS TRANSACTION OF THAT KIND?

We haven't the slightest doubt that Root would like to send back this man. We don't doubt that he would do it if he dared, and if he were permitted. But HE WON'T DARE AND HE WON'T BE PERMITTED. THE TRUSTS WILL FIND OUT THERE ARE SOME THINGS THAT THEY CAN'T USE AS PAYMENT FOR FOREIGN FAVORS.

Just how Mr. Root got for his employer, Mr. Ryan, the sudden Ryan interest in the Congo from the Belgian government, we don't know. We don't know what the consideration was there.

We are quite certain that Mr. Pouren will not be the consideration to be accepted by Russia as a proof of the trusts' good will.

A Duty for Mothers

They Should Be Taught That It Is Cruelty to Compel Dumb Animals to Perform on the Stage

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1908, by American Journal Examiner

A MAN who loves animals, and believes in their right to live free from misuse and cruelty, says:

"There is a crying need of a crusade against animal acts in theatres, and if the women and children knew the suffering which is endured daily for their entertainment (the managers say they provide them for women and children) they would refuse to patronize theatres where animals are used."

It would be well for the humane educational societies and for the S. P. C. A. to provide agents and detectives, if need be, to look into this matter.

Our theatres are coming to be more and more identified with the zoos, and the antics of animals are taking the place of the achievements of talent for the entertainment of the public.

Talking once with the trainer of some trick cats, I was assured that no blow was ever struck these dumb performers; that they were taught by love and bribed by food to learn their tricks, and their sleek and well-fed appearance was shown to prove that they were happy and well protected.

Yet when I saw them put into their crates and realized how many miserable hours they remained shut up during long railroad transits and while waiting their "turns" it seemed to me, were I a cat, I would prefer the open field and the hare-and-hound list of the tramp cat to this life of well-fed imprisonment.

At the same time, not being a cat, I may have mistaken the sentiments of this lovable and wise, even if selfish, animal. Perhaps if given the choice they would choose the "profession," with all its drawbacks.

Two performing horses I have seen were evidently happy and satisfied with life given them by their managers.

Cowed and Beaten

But when it comes to wild animals—bears, lions, tigers, elephants and seals—I am amazed at the cruelty in human nature which permits these creatures to be dragged over the world, caged and uncomfortable, cowed and beaten, for the amusement of the thoughtless and the profit of the indifferent.

As the animal feature is rapidly gaining ground in all the theatres, it seems of serious importance that the societies formed to look after the well being of our dumb kin should take careful measures to mitigate the evil attendant upon the professional life of dumb creatures.

And these measures should not be delayed. Right now is the time to do necessary things.

Chance for Mothers

Meantime, here is a chance for every mother to do a little educational work with her children, which may eventually be the means of abandoning this feature of public entertainments.

Let her awaken the mind of her child to an interest in the care the animals receive. It is not well to give a child sorrow for ills it cannot remedy; but it is a none cruel act to let a child grow up thoughtless and indifferent regarding the conditions surrounding weaker creatures, and only interested in them as a means of distraction or of selfish pleasure.

Every child that is taken to see performing animals should be made to think about these animals, and to hope they are well treated. The mother who teaches her child to pray would do well to interpolate a prayer for the comfort and happiness of the trained animals after the child has seen it perform.

All these thought currents bring awakening to the young mind, and may serve to hasten the day when grown human beings will consider the right of all living things before they consider mere material gain.

Such a day seems far, far away; but so seemed the freedom of black slaves only a half century ago.

And before any reform is brought about it has to be thought about. Teach children to think kindness, love and protection for animals.

ALPS—A range of mountains patronized by persons anxious to commit suicide laboriously.

"They slipped in the Alps
And fit on their scalps."
—Yodels of a Mountaineer.

CANADA—A large country to the north of the United States. Its principal use is as scenery for the new novels. It is inhabited by Northwest Mounted Police, musk ox, Indians and trappers, who speak English with a London-French accent. It exports nipples and United States citizens. Canada has a pond at both the front door and the back, to say nothing of several puddles on the southern boundary of her property, and owns a province-full of mountains, which are harder to climb than the Alps and just as easy to fall off. Kipling calls Canada "Our Lady of the Snows." Canada calls Kipling another.

CHEESE—Paralyzed milk.

OATMEAL—A food brought into favor by dentists. It is much favored by Scotchmen, as the accent necessary in eating oatmeal will keep a man warm in kilts on the coldest day. There's a reason.

OSTRICH—A large bird which supplies feathers for hats, but none for its legs. The ostrich lays a bigger egg than the hen, but doesn't cackle over it, and in consequence the hen has all the reputation. On the other hand, by refusing to sing, the ostrich escapes the fate of the canary, which is kept in a small cage by persons who love birds.

RACEHORSE—An animal once common in America, but now mostly shipped to England.

SKYE TERRIER—An Irish servant.

FOXY QUILLER BUG AT IT AGAIN

THE BACKS OF THESE BUGS ARE SO SLICK THE LOAD SLIPS OFF.
GLUE
HA! I HAVE IT! GLUE THEM BACK TO BACK.
AND WHILE ONE WALKS,
THE OTHER HOLDS THE LOAD.
